Blair County Contestant Wins Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Title

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Newly crowned Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Kristin Metzker did not bask in the aura of royalty long before she announced: "I am your servant for the year. I am here to serve each and every one of you."

Kristin told those who attended the 34th Pennsylvania dairy princess coronation, "I plan to work hard and make my alternates work hard to promote the greatest industry in Pennsylvania."

Kristin and First Alternate Mary Beth Landis of Bucks County and Second Alternate Sally Reibson of Sullivan County were chosen from 37 contestants during competition held at the Sheraton-Harrisburg East.

Judges said it was a tough job to chose the winner, because there were several shining stars and not just one among the competitors. Judges were Dr. Ron Buffington of Ohio, Mrs. Susan Reynolds of New York, and James Cavanaugh of Ohio.

The rigorous two days of judging climaxed when seven finalists were chosen to answer an impromtu question. In addition to Kristin, Sally, and Mary Beth, the four other finalists were Heidi Minner, Mercer County; Karen Leigh Jenkins, Somerset County; Jacy Clugston, Lancaster County, and Dana Ann Slusser, Crawford County.

The impromtu question posed by Master of Ceremonies Grover Gouker was given to each finalist individually. The question: "If you had the ways and means to show appreciation to your parents for all they've done for you, what would you do for them?"

Mercer County Dairy Princess Heidi Ann Minner answered, "I would try my hardest to make them happy. I would always keep a big smile on my face and thank them in every way possible for all the wonderful things they've done for me."

At the 34th Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Coronation held at the Sheraton-Harrisburg on September 22, judges chose Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Kristin Metzker from Blair County, First Alternate Mary Beth Landis of Bucks County, and Second Alternate Sally Reibson of Sullivan County to represent Pennsylvania's number one agricultural industry for the year.

State Youth Finish Dairy Competitions

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A year of showing dairy cattle culminated with Monday's Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show for many of the state's youth.

Of the annual six-breed dairy show, the entrants represent the cream of the crop from the state's youth. Each animal succeeded in winning county and district shows prior to becoming eligible for the state show.

The colored breed shows are run combined for all youth; 4-H and FFA. The Holstein breed competitions, traditionally with the largest number of entrants, is divided into 4-H and FFA divisions.

In the Holstein FFA division competition, Deanna Sparling's owned and bred, 3-year-old Maple-Flat Odyssey Ricky was judged grand champion finishing up several top wins for her in 1990 shows. Sparling is from Troy.

Taking reserve grand was a senior 2-year-old owned by Michael Daughtery of Greencastle. The Franklin County youth's animal, Dar-View Al Joy, is also an owned and bred animal.

In the 4-H division of the Holstein's, Karen Kauffman of Peach Bottom took home the grand champion rossette. Her junior 2-year-old, owned and bred, SuKavin Starbuck Jessica, was also a constant champion at area competitions throughout the year.

Jeffrey Davis's Daview Pete Ginger, a 4-year-old sired by Elvation Pete, was named 4-H reserve grand champion. Ginger is also owned by Davis and the result of his breeding selection. Davis is from Leesport.

Of the Brown Swiss, the older animals took the top recognition although Garrett Mase's animal were chosen champion and reserve champion junior animals by judge Folwer Branstetter, from Edmonton, Ky. Branstetter judged both the Brown Swiss and the Jersey breeds.

Jason Kennedy of Butler took home a grand champion rossette with his 4-year-old Four Seasons

Pennsylvania Designated Bovine TB Free

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's status as a Bovine Tuberculosis Accredited-Free State has been reinstated, Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff announced.

Wolff commended the department's Bureau of Animal Industry and federal animal health officials headquartered in the department for their efforts to control the disease after it was detected on a dairy farm in Halifax, Dauphin County, on Sept. 29, 1989.

"I am proud of our veterinarians and their work to trace this disease and eliminate it," Wolff said.

"Pennsylvania farmers are well served by the animal health experts here in Pennsylvania. State and federal people here in Harrisburg recognize the importance of their work to protect public health and the investments of our producers."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) Veterinary Services approved the reinstatement of Bovine Tuberculosis Accredited-Free State Status a week ago.

When Bovine Tuberculosis was detected in 1989, a team of experts began an investigation that provided tuberculin testing for all animals that could have come in contact with cows from the Dauphin County herd where Bovine Tuberculosis appeared. There were 122 cows on the affected farm, and

1990 KILE Features 60 Categories, $120,000 In Premiums

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— The Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) has long been recognized as a competitive forum and showcase for the nation's top breeders of beef cattle, swine, sheep and horses. Last year's exposition drew 3,795 entries from 25 states.

As we move into a new decade, KILE has become competitive with other national livestock shows. The 1990 exposition offers $120,000 in premiums to exhibitors in 60 categories of competition.

The proud traditions that have made KILE an international exposition during the last 33 years continue at this year's show. But show committees are always looking at ways to improve the exposition and attract new exhibitors. Additions for 1990 include:

* The first Simmental Pennsylvania Capital Futurity makes its debut with an estimated purse of $20,000. The grand champion bull and heifer will each receive a minimum of $1,500.

* The American Berkshire Association and Pennsylvania Chester White Association will combine their efforts and conduct a national sale.

* Classes have been increased for the Appaloosa Horse Show, another double-pointed show.

* The Junior Breeding Sheep Show now includes a class for Montadales.

An assortment of entertainment features have been scheduled for exhibitors and visitors alike, including educational exhibits, commercial exhibits, food booths, the KILE barnyard, racing pigs, country music and clowns.

The 34th annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition, October 4-8 at the Farm Show Complex, is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Livestock Association, Department of Agriculture and Farm Products Show Commission.

National Egg Market

Sept. 26, 1990

The trade sentiment ranged steady to fully steady but buyers in some areas became increasingly cautious Movement of cartoned eggs ranged fair to good, mostly fair Supplies of jumbos and extra-large were no more than adequate, large were in close balance, and mediums were irregularly distributed and ranged tight to long. Breakers operated full schedules Demand for additional product was light as most traders await further market developments.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer

Sept. 26, 1990

Movement of ready-to-cook whole fryers was fair today, but about as expected for mid-week trading Supplies ranged adequate to ample, additional product was offered at competitive prices but buyers were cautious. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to lower at 48-59 cents. Live supplies were adequate with average live weights ranging desirable to heavy. Today's processing schedules were heavy. The trade sentiment was barely steady to weak. In the parts complex, wings were adequate to fully adequate, all other items were fully adequate.

Sept. 26, 1990

Trucklot buying interest was light and selective. Supplies of skinned boneless breasts were fully adequate to ample and often noted as difficult to place, even at discounts to current price levels. Whole breasts were at least fully adequate; however, traders generally note less pressure on making sales and increased willingness to buy at current levels Leg items remained in fairly heavy supply but interest was developing at several points, particularly on leg quarters and whole legs. Drums were slow in clearing. Wings ranged fully adequate to ample in less than trucklot volumes.

Agricultural Services Update

JAY HOWES
Manager, Ag Services

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In June, when I started as the Manager of Agricultural Services for The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the first phase of the job was to meet with a broad cross-section of the Lancaster ag industry and hear firsthand their views on area agriculture and the direction it's heading.

In reflecting upon those conversations, one impression is particularly strong. Set aside the diversity of products and market-- forget all about Lancaster County's natural advantages-- don't think in terms of acres and dollar volumes of crops-- the real strength of Lancaster County agriculture, particularly as we address the problems and challenges of the 90s, lies in the dedication, the enthusiasm and the basic optimism of the people involved in the industry on a daily basis.

It is these men and women, working in all aspects of the ag community whose labor and, more importantly, ideas will determine the future strength of Lancaster agriculture. It is from you that I have drawn my thoughts in five general areas where I anticipate devoting my efforts. A couple are fairly specific and well-defined; others may take a while to develop-- in either case, however, they do provide the outline of the direction I see the chamber going with its agricultural programs.

MARKETING OF LANCASTER COUNTY PRODUCTS

The goal of capitalizing on the already positive image of Lancaster County products in the agricultural marketplace through use of a "Lancaster label" and an advertising campaign is by no means a new idea. But, no one to date has taken the lead in organizing and developing the concept. It is our intent to proceed with this by establishing an ad hoc group, including representatives of the Chamber Ag Committee, the County Extension Service and the Pennsylvania Dutch Convention and Visitors Bureau, as well as those presently involved in production and/or marketing of the county's products.

The mission of this group will be to thoroughly investigate all aspects of such a project and, if the decision is made to proceed, implement for the 1991 market season.

The logical starting point for such a campaign is with fresh fruits and vegetables, but if the program develops as anticipated, there can be substantial spin-off benefit to the full range of Lancaster County agricultural products, and give a focal point for possible new value-added agricultural industries.

LONG-TERM AGRICULTURAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Related to the first topic, but broader and of a more long-range nature, the goal in this case is to be a motivating factor in the long-term economic viability of both individual farmers and the related ag-industries dependent upon them. The basic thrust will be to continually monitor new sources of farm income-- anything from disposing of leaves or grass clippings to exotic specialty crops to alternative enterprises designed to use modern low-input technology.

Another aspect of this general area is identifying and assisting with the financing and start-up of processing or other value-added industries. A natural "fit" with other economic development activity at The Chamber, this might address an existing void in processing or distribution or be custom-designed for a new or specialty crop. Integrated agricultural businesses whereby the waste or by-product of one becomes an input to the production process of another is a related area that needs to be watched. As research and resulting technology address what are today considered problems (e.g., excess manure), they may in the future become valuable sources of farm income.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

An all-encompassing term, but as used here focuses primarily on the goal of increased dialogue and understanding between the farm and non-farm segments of the population. Inherent in this is the need for an accurate and positive voice on issues-- often misunderstood by the general public-- of importance to agriculture.

Availability as a speaker for non-ag groups, news articles or columns directed toward the general public, and coordination of a pro-agriculture T.V. ad campaign are all means of addressing this issue and can be expected in the future.

POLITICAL/LEGISLATIVE /REGULATORY

It is generally agreed that one of the major influences on the way farmers do business in the 90s will be the increasing amount of regulation directed at farmers by all levels of government. Not only do these involve a direct cost to the farmer, but too often regulations are subject to varied interpretations or are conflicting from one regulatory body to the next, thus leaving the farmer in a very vulnerable position.

Hopefully, over time, the Manager of Agricultural Services can be perceived as a powerful voice for a united Lancaster County agriculture and, therefore, have a positive, common-sense impact on legislative or regulatory matters. Plans are to monitor the legislative situation through regular contact with area legislators and the staff of the state Senate and House agriculture committees. Likewise, regular contact with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture will be necessary to stay current on activity from that direction.

At the local level, assistance with coordination of local ordinances, serving as a resource for information, or simply providing the agricultural perspective to local municipal governments should have a very positive effect.

Depending on the situation, additional action could conceivably take the form of direct individual contact, suggestions for action by individual farmers or farm groups, or recommendation of a formal statement of position by the Chamber. In all cases, the intent is to augment, not replace, the activities of other politically active groups and thereby strengthen the overall effort for the benefit of area farmers.

INFORMATION/ CONSULTANT/REFERRAL SERVICE

Looking toward the goal of Lancaster County's farmers making the maximum economic use of the wealth of information, products and services available in the county, an "Agricultural Product and Services Directory" has been suggested. Using this as a starting point, there is some thought it could evolve into a referral, "match-making" or consultant service.

My thinking on this topic is still loose and open, so feedback would be most appropriate and appreciated. How beneficial would this type of effort be? To whom? Does it duplicate services already available? Or, at what point would we be competing with the private sector? These questions are all relevant and need to be addressed.

A FINAL THOUGHT

While the initiatives set forth appear to be the priorities at this point, they are intended to be neither all inclusive nor exclusive of other opportunities that might evolve.

As always, your reactions and new ideas are most appreciated. Feel free to call me at 397-3531 or drop a note to me at P.O. Box 1558, Lancaster, PA 17603-1558.

Your Land May Be Headed Downstream

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — "Is your land going down the stream?" asks John Fior, soil conservationist of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Sediment is the number one pollutant by volume of our streams in the county. Accelerated erosion, or erosion other than that caused by natural process, is the cause of this sediment. Farming, construction sites, and any of man's other earth-moving activities are all contributing sources of this pollutant.

The water quality damages that result from this pollutant are affecting all of us. It causes streams and rivers to become clogged, causes more frequent flooding and creates swampland.

Sediment fills lakes and municipal water supply reservoirs. It clogs roadside ditches, plugs culverts, and decreases bridge capacities. "To clean up and repair these damages costs the general public money in the form of tax dollars or adds to the cost of commodities we buy," said Fior.

Through the installation of surface water control systems, most of these damages can be eliminated. In the process of reducing runoff to a minimum, erosion is also reduced. Many of the surface water control practices used on agricultural land can be adapted to urban construction. These practices can range from simple proper revegetation of bare soils to concrete channel linings.

OPINION

One Boycott Deserves Another

The animal rights' group People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (P.E.T.A.) has started an advertising campaign that attacks eating meat and promotes a vegetarian diet, which Julie Franklin, public relations director, Pennsylvania State Grange, believes serves no purpose but to misinform the public.

Appearing in an ad with a cow called "Meat Stinks", Canadian country and western singer K.D. Lang says, "If you knew how meat was made, you'd probably lose your lunch. I know - I'm from cattle country. That's why I became a vegetarian. Meat stinks and not just for animals but for human health and environment."

Believing one boycott deserves another, KRVN, in Lexington, Neb., will boycott Lang's music in retaliation against her participation in an ad that discredits meat. The Pennsylvania State Grange, which represents about 40,000 farming and rural Pennsylvanians, hopes that many radio stations take her participation in such falsehoods as extremely serious and boycott her productions.

If Ms. Lang comes from "cattle country" she should know that this advertisement does nothing but misinform the public about their food's origin.

Animal agriculture is as traditional as human history and has provided a significant source of food for centuries. No one takes better care of the environment and their animals than livestock farmers and ranchers. Animal agriculture is their life and livelihood.

Every major health organization in the United States recognizes meat's positive nutritional contribution when it is eaten in moderation as part of a balanced and varied diet. No federal government report or health organization's set of dietary guidelines has ever recommended a vegetarian diet as being necessary to enjoy good health.

P.E.T.A. is an animal rights activist organization that is seeking to attain controversial goals. They have not demonstrated to us qualifications to advise the American public on nutritional matters or any other health or environmental matters.

Although P.E.T.A. has a guaranteed right to express its opinions, it also has a responsibility to speak honestly and accurately. The Grange thinks the American people deserve a factual, rational discussion of this issue and one that is not rhetoric.

We understand that P.E.T.A. plans to approach the broadcast media about running this ad as "public service announcements" free of charge. If this does, in fact, happen, we challenge our friends in the urban and city media to take an equitable stance and also air the cattlemen's response to these ads as public service announcements. For more information on the cattlemen's response contact the National Livestock and Meat Board, 444 Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611.

Editor:

This year promises to be an exciting year for Pennsylvania state agriculture and the Pennsylvania FFA Association. In June, 11 FFA members were selected to become the 1990-91 Pennsylvania State FFA officers. Each state officer has the responsibility of representing the over 8,000 Pennsylvania FFA members, conducting various leadership conferences, visiting FFA chapters, and promoting the agricultural industry and the FFA. To Manage Horizontal Silos

Most of our permanent silos are filled, but we do have some livestock and dairy producers that need to store silage in temporary structures. In many cases this is a trench or bunker silo, mostly above ground. In these cases, it is very important to keep out excess water and air from the silage mass. This will require tightening down the plastic cover week by week as the silage settles. Also, surface water should be drained away from the silage area. There are cases where the black plastic is flapping in the wind during fall months. This usually results in a large amount of spoiled silage. Also available are the large plastic tubes that can be completely sealed.

To Beware Of Spiny Pigweed In Pastures

Redroot or redroot pigweed is a common, easily recognized annual weed in gardens and cultivated fields. We are also seeing the first cousin of this weed — spiny redroot — appearing in many areas of the county.

If you do not know what spiny redroot looks like, you can tell real quickly what it feels like by carefully rubbing your fingers along the stem. Two needleshape spines occur at the juncture of each leaf with the stem. These spines prevent all grazing animals from eating these plants. Consequently we are seeing large numbers of these weeds appearing in many pastures, along cow paths and in open spaces or loafing areas. Some have been found in alfalfa fields...a bad situation. These weeds now have mostly red stems and can easily be spotted. The plants should be cut before heading out and going to seed.

For control, use Banvel or any of the 2,4-D type herbicides. You can spot spray the plants now but the best time would be just about the time in May when corn planting time is over. The important thing is to remove the cattle and spray the pasture. A second application to kill late appearing weed seedlings would likely be needed. Always follow label instructions when applying any pesticide.

To Sow A Fall Cover Crop

Our concern for soil conservation should include a cover crop following corn, tobacco, or other row crops. This is an excellent practice and we encourage all farmers to keep their land covered with some vegetation during the winter months. The cover crop could be any winter grain crop or domestic ryegrass and field bromegrass. Then next spring the growth can be pastured early and then plowed down or used in a no-till grain operation. Cover crops not only add organic matter but help to hold the topsoil during the winter months. They are well worth the investment.

You need to be aware that some herbicides such as atrazine and simazine applied at the higher rates, will affect germination, but if used at one pound of actual material per acre, it should be safe.

To Watch For Unwanted Guests

Now that the weather is getting cooler you may find some unwanted guests in your barn and home. You won't see them too often perhaps, but they're there. These guests will destroy more food and property than they eat. The guests in question are rats and mice. As the weather gets colder, they migrate from outdoors to indoors.

Are you aware that one rat can cost you $28 a year, and that rats cause an estimated 25% of all farm fires, and that rats destroy about 20% of all crops planted each year. Rats have a litter every 30 days...multiplying so rapidly a pair could have 15,000 descendants in a year's life span.

They kill small animals and chickens and also carry diseases to people and animals. Reasons enough to start a good rat control program.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A LYING SPIRIT

September 30, 1990

Background Scripture: 1 Kings 22: 1-40.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 26.

A few days ago I read a column on the editorial page of our local paper. The columnist was very much disturbed because he concluded that the well-intentioned lie, not truth, had become the standard for our public and private life. If a public figure makes a mistake, we do not expect that he will ever really admit it. I get the impression that the general public does not expect that public officials will tell the truth. We even to honor people who lie on a higher level: in congress, in the counsels of government, in the courts, in city hall and in the market place.

Now, don't get me wrong, that doesn't mean large numbers of people would vote for "lying," per se. What they would probably vote for is terminology that makes lying seem like something else: promotion, advertising, propaganda, sales pitch, campaign oratory, and so forth. Teddy Roosevelt's son used to say, "Dad's all for peace—so long as it doesn't get in the way of the fighting." Lots of people are for the truth in much the same way.

Why Not "Go Along"?

The way to "get along" today is to tell people what they want to hear. That was the objection which King Ahab had against the Prophet Micaiah. "I hate him," he told King Jehoshaphat, "for he never prophesies good concerning me, but evil" (22:8). If, like all the other prophets of the time, Micaiah had prophesied good to King Ahab, there would have been no enmity between them. Why couldn't Micaiah "go along" and say at least something that Ahab wanted to hear? Maybe Micaiah would have liked to do that, but something inside him wouldn't let him sell his soul so cheaply for the approval of others. That "something inside" was his relationship with God. So, when we lie — or by whatever other name we call it— we are violating our relationship with God.

Recently, I was at a seminar in which University of Pennsylvania Professor Martin Seligman reported on an extensive study that found that over the past several decades the American people have repeatedly elected as President those candidates who spoke primarily in positive terms about the country and its concerns, despite the fact that there are times when we need to be critical of where we are and where we are going as a nation. In other words, we vote for those who tell us what we want to hear. Political life is certainly an area in which it appears we do not value truth.

Valuing Truth

Micaiah played a kind of joke on King Ahab, for when he was brought before the king, he mimicked the message that Ahab had received from all the other prophets. But, Ahab knew his leg was being pulled: "How many times shall I adjure you that you speak nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?" (22:16). So, Micaiah speaks again and this time he tells the truth as God has given it to him. Now, Ahab is upset again. Turning to Jehoshaphat, he says: "Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?"

Micaiah is joking no longer when he says: "the Lord has put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these your prophets" (22:23). Neither is the lying spirit that also pervades our society a laughing matter!

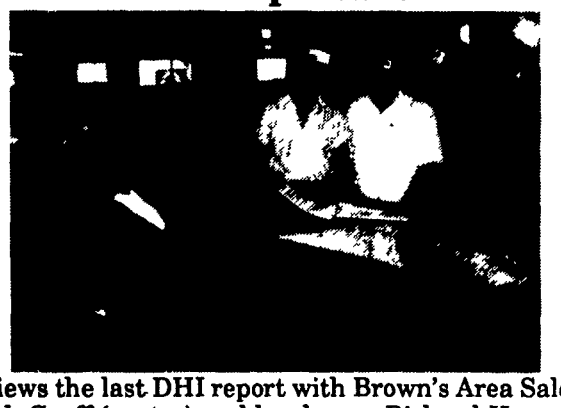
Dunn's Farms, Inc. - New Ringgold's

Nestled in a valley in Schuylkill County, Dunn's Pride Holsteins were established in November of 1987 when Jim and Tammy Dunn purchased a Registered Holstein herd from Cliff Lavan of Milton. Jim's father and brother operate a crop, fruit and vegetable business on a long established family farm. Cows are fed hay, haylage, corn silage, high moisture corn, home grown soybeans and a Brown's concentrate balanced for top production with emphasis on maximum forage intake.

The Dunn Family

Jim, his wife Tammy, and sons Bobby, Joshua, and David enjoy the dairy business. The calf shown here, a Vanguard daughter out of a 30,000 lb. Bell dam is representative of the future Dunn's Pride Holstein herd. Calves are all raised on Brown's Calf Feeding Program featuring Brown's Calf Starter, Brown's Calf Grower, and 40 Hef-R-B300 Bovatec heifer supplement.

Ration Balancing and Ration Cost Are Important



Jim reviews the last DHI report with Brown's Area Sales Manager Rich Graff (center) and herdsman Richard Heyer (right). Jim feels that with Brown's he has more time to concentrate on the cows. He had tried another feed consultant/mineral company before switching to Brown's, and it was taking much more time to mix feeds. Ration cost was also a concern. Since switching to Brown's, milk production has increased over 7,000 lbs., herd size has also increased by one third, but feed cost per hundred of milk has stayed the same and Income Over Feed Cost has doubled. Apple (cow in front of feed cart) is one of eight cows in the herd projected at over 30,000 lbs. of milk.

2 Yr. Old - Top Cow In Herd

Penny was purchased as a bred heifer. She freshened at 2-6 and in 305 days made 30,731 milk, 1027 fat, and 1004 protein. She is due in November and in August was still at 74 lbs. of milk. Jim feels his cows freshen easier, start faster, and maintain their peaks longer on the Brown's Program. From January to June, Penny milked over 100 lbs. Apple (previous picture) peaked at 162 lbs. & milked over 100 lbs. from February through June. During four months this spring he had seventeen cows out of his fifty cow herd milking over 100 lbs. per day. Breeding is excellent with a 13.2 month calving interval, and a 52% success rate on first service.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-Two Lancaster County Future Farmers represented the state in the livestock judging contest at the Virginia State Fair at Richmond this week.

John Henry Hess of Manheim R1, who placed sixth in the state contest at the June convention paced the 3-man Pennsylvania team to a third place ribbon Monday.

Larry Weaver, New Holland, who placed sixth in state competition earlier this year was the other team` member from Lancaster County.

Hess is a student at Manheim Central High School while Weaver is enrolled in vocational agriculture at Garden Spot High School, New Holland.

-A 1,130 pound Angus steer named Shorty came out on the long end in the best cattle judging Thursday at the New Holland Fair.

Shorty, a Lancaster County-bred calf, won for his master, Carl Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Weaver, New Holland R1, the first grand championship rosette of his career which started eight years ago.

Weaver, a graduate of Garden Spot High School, received his steer from the herd of George Jackson and Son of Christiana R1 when the steer weighed 520 pounds.

Rosemary Nolt, the 13 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nolt, Bareville, captured the runner-up spot with a 1,015 pound Angus in her first year of 4-H Baby Beef work.

Champion Hereford wa exhibited by Rodella Kurtz, Morgantown. He weighed in at 1050 lbs.

Meanwhile, a 204 pound Duroc Jersey barrow, shown by John Eby, Gordonville R1, took the championship in the swine show.

-Top places in the tobacco and corn judging at New Holland Fair this week went to Lancaster County farmers, but the big money prize for the top hay exhibit was carried off by a Lebanon County Future Farmer.

The $100 grand champion bale, slice of heat cured alfalfa hay was exhibited by George Bryce, Lebanon R4.

William Rhinier, another Future Farmer from New Holland R2, took home the $50 grand prize for his lath of five wrapper tobacco stalks.

The award for the best single ear of corn was captured by Roy Musser, Blue Ball, while the best ten ears were exhibited by Clyde Wissler, New Holland R1. The Cocalico chapter FFA prepared the top exhibit of 30 ears.

-A chunky 875 pound Hereford named Chee-ze took advantage of the four leaf clover found by his mistress as the steer was being loaded for the trip to the Lampeter Fair Wednesday.

Mary Jane Herr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Herr, Refton, with the thought of that lucky four leaf clover (the 4-H symbol) she had just found, nudged her charge to the grand championship of the show a well as the showmanship and fitting titles over thirteen other Herefords and four Angus.

South Mountain Dairy Show Excells

THOMAS E. PIPER
County Extension Director

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Always a highlight of the South Mountain Fair, the recent dairy show drew a good crown of spectators for the judging of 43 animals representing three major breeds. Placing the entires on the basis of type or proximity to the ideal standard for the respective breeds was Dr. James McCaffree of R.D. 1, Delta, in York County, a dairy farmer and former professor of dairy science at Delaware Valley College.

Conducted as an "open class show," special recignition was given and awards paid to those who qualified with 4-H and FFA project animals.

One Guernsey was shown, a junior yearling owned by Jesse Murren of New Oxford, which claimed junior and grand champion honors.

In the Brown Swiss breed, Michael Riser of New Oxford showed an intermediate age heifer which was named junior champion; the junior calf shown by Joy Hess of Gettysburg was named reserve junior champion. Hess also showed the first place summer yearling, which was given the additional honor as junior champion among the 4-H entries; Riser's entry was granted the duplicate honor for FFA projects.

Proposed Dairy Legislation Awaits Budget Axe

KARL BERGER

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Almost all the "i's" have been dotted and the "t's" crossed on a new five-year farm bill, but dairy farmers are no closer to knowing the government's price support policy than they were in January.

That's because the very similar farm bill proposals approved to date by both the House of Representatives and the Senate are subject to ongoing efforts to reduce the federal budget deficit, according to farm lobbyists in Washington.

"They may have to rewrite major portions of the bill to agree with an as-yet undetermined budget savings requirement," Rob Nooter, assistant director of national affairs for the American Farm Bureau Federation, said last week. Nooter said the talk among farm lobbyists in Washington these days is of dollar numbers, specifically the number of billions that a budget agreement will require in savings from a farm budget that's expected to cost $53-54 billion over the next five years.

That rewrite could spell major changes in the agreed-to provisions, particularly for dairy farmers, other analysts note. Steve Kerr, director of the Northeast Council of Farmer Cooperatives, said the battle will be waged between those who favor price cuts as the sole answer to the related budget and surplus problems in the industry and those who favor at least some form of modest supply control.

However, Kerr said, there don't appear to be many supply control options open to Congress, which has already ruled out another whole herd buyout program and also has shown little support for rigid quota systems. He suggested some type of temporary diversion program, whether for milk in general or butterfat in particular, may be the best alternative the industry can realize.

Currently, both the House and Senate versions of the new farm bill require U.S. Department of Agriculture officials to implement a supply control program if surplus projections exceed certain levels, but the legislation does not specify the details. The bills also specify that the government support price cannot fall below the current $10.10 a hundredweight level. Both provisions are under pressure from the Bush administration.

Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has made no secret of his distaste for this proposed dairy policy. In a recent speech criticizing the proposed farm bills, he singled out their dairy provisions for special opprobrium. Yeutter said the establishment of $10.10 as a rigid price floor would "bring production quotas or other draconian supply control measures." He also said current gains in milk production represent a "race for base in anticipation of regulated quotas."

However, any changes await action from the budget summit between members of Congress and the Bush administration. The House and Senate members of the farm bill's conference committee began meeting last week to iron out their differences, but all the major items affecting expenditures have been set aside pending a budget agreement, Nooter said.

Prospects for a new farm bill before the November elections are thus diminished. "If there's a budget agreement by Oct. 1, there's probably a 50-50 chance of a farm bill before they go home to campaign," Nooter said, but he didn't sound hopeful.

Robert Frederick, legislative director for the National Grange, said one possibility is that a lame duck Congress will pass a new farm bill in December, as Congress did back in 1985. There is even sentiment for simply extending the provisions of that 1985 farm bill indefinitely, he said. That, too, would mean a continuation of the support price reductions of the last five years beyond the $10.10 floor.

In yet another scenario, across-the-board budget cuts under provisions of the old Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction program or some other authority may impose a direct assessment on dairymen at least temporarily. Some estimates have projected this fee at as much as 10.4 cents per hundredweight, which would collect about $150 million annually.

Long gone from the list of possibilities is the component adjustment program, or CAP, that the National Milk Producers Federation proposed at the beginning of the farm bill debate. The federation's idea was to impose a lower price on any milk component significantly in surplus. It would have worked as a kind of two-tier pricing system by component. The federation's proposed policy would have coupled this with some other form of standby supply control for milk in general and with support price adjustments keyed to surplus production levels. The federation originally had requested the support price floor be raised 50 cents, to $10.60 for milk of average butterfat content.

National Milk, which serves as the chief lobbyist for most of the nation's dairy cooperatives, would like to preserve the supply management option as an alternative to continued support price reductions, according to Lisa Keller, a federation spokesman. She said the industry is prepared to accept the consequences of a budget reduction agreement, as long as they are imposed equitably among all farmers. In that regard, she noted that the government operates supply control programs for the other major commodities.

It was a point that Tom Camerlo, the NMPF president, also made in replying to Yeutter's recent comments.

"Unlike wheat and feed grains, we don't have a permanent supply control program," he said. "In fact, of all major comodity programs, dairy is the only one currently without a supply management feature. I simply can't understand why dairy farmers are wrong to want to be treated like other commodities."

KILE Schedules 'Challenge Of The Breeds'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A unique Saturday evening program is being planned for the 1990 Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) to be held October 4-8 in the Farm Show Complex.

This event, the "challenge of the Breeds," will pit four internationally recognized horse breeds — the Appaloosa, the Arabian, the Paint, and the Quarter Horse — against each other on Saturday evening, Oct. 6.

The animals, two from each breed, will be chosen by their respective breed associations. In order to compete, the horse must be owned by a Pennsylvania resident.

The six events in which each horse will be entered include:

- Pleasure Driving. Horses are asked to perform both ways at a walk and trot.
- English Pleasure. In English tack, horses will perform both directions at a walk, trot, and a canter.
- Hunter Hack. In addition to performing on the rail, the horse will be asked to take two jumps.
- Western Pleasure. In western gear, the horse will walk, jog, and lope in both directions.
- Western Riding. The horse performs a prescribed course which demonstrates the performance of a well-mannered ranch horse.
- Barrel Racing. A timed event in the clover-leaf pattern is performed by the horse.

The horses will be judged at each of these events on a point system by a qualified judge. The winning horse will receive the distinction of being the Keystone Sovereign champion and will receive an award of $1,000. The reserve champion will be awarded $500. Placings will be paid through eighth place.

This marks the second time that a "Challenge of the Breeds" event has been held in Pennsylvania. Last year's winner was "Paint Me Hobby" shown by Terry and Peg Helder from Wrightsville.

Jim Gallagher, chairman of the event and co-chairman of the KILE show, reports that the various breed associations are in the process of looking for "outstanding" horses. The horses not only must rate high in confirmation and performance, but must be very versatile.

In addition to the six events in the "Challenge of the Breeds," the draft horse hitch classes will be held during the evening. These classes consist of the 4-horse hitch, the 6-horse hitch, and the farm team, just to name a few.

Holstein Takes York Fair 4-H Supreme Title

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — In a somewhat unusual turn of events, a 6-year-old dry Holstein took the supreme title during the 4-H dairy show at the York Fair.

Outstanding strength and a powerful front end overcame the lack of an udder in bloom for 4-H supreme champion Lady Dar-Dale Pabst Kimberly, exhibited by Shannon Doll, Brodbecks.

Judges John Burket, East Freedom, and Thomas Dum, Elliottsburg, kept the crowd in suspense while selecting the supreme winner from a field of five dairy breed champions exhibited by the fair's 4-H exhibitors.

It was a triumphant day for the 16-year-old southwest dairy club member, who also exhibited the junior champion Holstein, as well as the top Ayrshire breed winner.

Other top honors in the Holstein division were shared by Angie Lang, York, exhibiting her junior 3-year-old to the breed's reserve senior and grand championship, and Greg Gemmill, Delta, showing the reserve junior champion.

Ayrshire junior and grand champion for Shannon Doll was Ray-Knoll Johnny's Valerie, a senior yearling. Sharing the Ayrshire awards was Jasin Doll, Brodbecks, taking reserve junior and reserve grand champion with his senior yearling entry. Brown Swiss junior and grand champion honors went to Kelly Jo Myers, Thomasville.

Kelly Morris, Fawn Grove, claimed two of the top four Guernsey breed prizes. Her 4-year-old Beas Bonus Tinkerbell, was chosen senior and grand champion, with the winning cow's intermediate age heifer taking the junior champion honors. Reserve senior and grand Guernsey was exhibited by Annie Rauhauser, Dover, and reserve junior champion went to Jenelle Boyer, York.

Senior and grand champion Jersey was Golden Yankees Sweetness, exhibited by Jasin Doll, Brodbecks. Junior champion and reserve was the senior calf exhibited by Paul Rauhauser, Dover. Winning the reserve junior champion award was Annie Rauhauser, Dover.

Reduction Required For Wheat Program

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — To assist wheat farmers in planning for the coming year, the United States Department of Agriculture has tentatively projected a 10 to 20 percent reduction requirement for participation in the 1991 wheat program.

These figures are only estimates that are subject to change when the 1990 farm bill is finally passed. Also, the method in which crop bases have been calculated for the previous few years is undetermined at this time.

Final provisions of the 1991 wheat program will be announced as soon as the 1990 farm bill is enacted.

Feet and Legs

Feet and leg problems can cause cows to leave the herd prematurely. Many of the feet and leg problems may also be responsible for cows being culled for low production and poor reproduction. Thus, the records may not truly reflect the real reason why cows had to be culled. If cows' feet are hurting, they won't display strong heats; nor will they be anxious to walk to the manger or pasture for feed. Thus, milk production suffers. If this causes cows to become too thin, heat expression, ovary activity and conception also may be affected.

We see a considerable number of cows with puffy hocks and stiff joints. A lot of times I hear these problems being blamed on rubber mats, stall beds and concrete stress, which is probably true in many cases. But, I also wonder how many of these puffy hocks are related to hoof injuries, where infections enter via the hoof and eventually spread upward to the leg joints. If this is the case, changes we've made in housing and feeding over the past ten years or so could be a major contributing factor, one that perhaps we tend to overlook.

Cows and heifers are more confined. They spend more time standing on concrete and in slop (manure and urine). Their feet seldom have an opportunity to dry off, and they become predisposed to a variety of injuries and infections.

We're also feeding more grain, more chopped and ensiled feeds, and using more fats and oils or oil seeds in our rations. As we feed more grain and less forage cows' rumens become more acid. The problem is compounded when the forages that we do feed are also chopped and ensiled.

Chopping forages finely reduces the effectiveness of the fiber in the ration, and cows spend less time chewing their cuds. Cows' saliva production and rumen buffering activity are reduced, and the rumen becomes more acid. Resultant acidosis problems can cause foot problems such as laminitis or founder. These injuries generally are permanent in nature. Cows can be treated for these injuries to give them some temporary relief, but they seldom ever recover completely.

Fats and oils that are added to the ration coat the surface area of forage particles, making them more difficult for rumen microbes to digest. If too much fat and oil is fed, or if additional forages of sufficient particle length and digestibility are not fed, the acidosis-related problems discussed earlier can occur.

As we try to get dry cows and heifers onto full feed after calving we may be making ration changes too suddenly, faster than what the rumen bacteria and the gut lining can adjust. This also can cause foot problems such as founder or laminitis. Many times, when a heifer gets these problems, she won't eat well because her feet hurt. She loses flesh, she won't milk well, and within six months of calving, she is out of the herd.

Cows can vary considerably in size and in forage consumption. Yet, when we balance rations and develop feeding programs for the herd, we frequently assume that all cows consume equal amounts of forage and then feed grain on the basis of that erroneous assumption. This could be a problem, especially if we are feeding minimal amounts of forage to begin with, and then chopping and ensiling the forage, adding fats and oils to the ration, not acclimating close-up cattle to grain feeding prior to calving, feeding a lot of grain, and introducing large slugs of grain to an improperly buffered rumen.

Chances are, a small 1100 lb. heifer will not eat as much forage as the average daily intake figure you used for balancing the ration. If the heifer's appetite is sluggish, and you feed her a little extra grain to encourage more milk production and boost weight gains, you could be aggravating the problem and setting her up to develop some foot problems.

Thus, it is important to estimate cows actual forage intakes as accurately as reasonably possible, and to regulate what a cow or heifer eats in the weeks prior to and after calving. Make ration changes slowly over a period of about 3 to 4 weeks. Be sure they get an abundant amount of good quality forage before and after calving. Be sure cows are eating adequate amounts of good quality forage before worrying about getting more grain into them.

For many years, we have been taught to feed cows according to production, and we learned our lesson well. However, with today's high producing herds, that could be a mistake, especially in early lactation. We need to maximize intake of dry matter and nutrients, without causing appetite problems and digestive upsets, and we need to feed according to flesh conditions. Once the cow is in proper flesh, we can then feed according to production and growth.

Keep the maternity area clean and dry. Give dry cows some relief from concrete stress; let them have access to a dirt lot or a well sodded area -- not a sloppy lot. Try to house cattle in such a way that their feet have an opportunity to dry off from time to time. Trim cows' feet when necessary,

Maryland State Fair Jerseys Shine

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — Janet and Randy Stiles claimed the Grand Champion Ribbon for their four-year-old Jersey, JRS Volunteer Britani. As Judge Robert Fitzsimons gave reasons after judging the four-year-old class, he commented, "This was a tremendous class."

Choosing the Grand Champion, he said, "The four-year-old class was the best cow class and an easy champion emerged."

On August 11, Britani was classified 93. Her 2-yr.-old month milk record for 342 days was 14,552 pounds of milk and 712 pounds of fat. She was 4-H supreme champion of the Montgomery County Fair in 1989 and the Maryland State Fair in 1988 and 1989. In 1989 she also received the honor of being reserve champion at the Pennsylvania All American Show.

The results were:

Sunnybend Takes York Fair Dairy Supreme

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A senior-2-year old homebred Holstein was named supreme champion as the wrap-up highlight of the York Fair open class dairy show.

Sunnybend Mamie Brent Valiant, exhibited by the Tom Boyer family's Sunnybend Farm, York, got the judges' nod for the top honor after an earlier win over the Holstein breed show. Harmony scored VG-86 her first classification and is projected to complete a first 305-day lactation with over 19,000 milk.

Reserve supreme was the champion Jersey, exhibited by Mildred Seeds, Downingtown. Top-O-Hill Admiral MG is also a senior 2-year-old, homebred and out of four generations of Top-O-Hill breeding. Ironically, the winning Jersey almost left Mildred's noted show herd because of her lack of typiness as a calf. But the intended buyer never came to claim Admiral, who blossomed into a prize-winning heifer and winner this show season of several championships.

In the Holstein breed show, a herdmate to the supreme champion stood in the reserve champion spot. Sunnybend Milkway Harmony, a 3-year-old, was bred and exhibited by the Tom Boyer family. Junior and reserve junior Holstein honors went to Coredale Farms, the Rodman Thompson family, East Berlin, showing an intermediate yearling and a summer yearling.

The Top-O-Hill show string not only had the Jersey champion, but reserve and both junior honors as well. Owner Mildred Seeds, who has exhibited at the York Fair for at least 25 years, has taken the fair's Jersey breed class championship for nine of the last ten years.

Top Guernsey breed honors also went to a long-time York Fair exhibitor, Rutter Brothers Dairy of York. Senior and grand champion was 3-year-old Rutter Bros. Mels Beary, besting her 4-year-old herdmate in the reserve senior and grand spot. Junior champion was the junior yearling exhibited by Jenelle Boyer, York, while Rutters claimed the reserve junior spot with their senior yearling.

Sam Diehl, Bedford, a 45-year veteran of the York Fair's Ayrshire show, added another to his string of champion honors. Senior and grand champion was Diehl's aged cow Cove Creek Albi Lizz. In the reserve senior and grand spot was Diehl's winning senior-2-year-old. Ayrshire junior champion was the senior calf exhibited by 4-H'er Mary Ellen Deaven, Palmyra. Dream-Valley Holsteins took the reserve junior title with their homebred junior yearling.

All Brown Swiss champion and reserve awards were swept by Glenn and Gary Crowl, Airville. Crowls' 4-year-old homebred Joyel Titan Boot Leg took champion honors, with reserve going to their second-place 4-year-old. Junior champion was the senior yearling, over the junior calf in reserve.

many animals had been sold to other herds or exhibited at livestock shows.

Efforts to control the spread of the disease involved tuberculin testing of 11,844 animals in 144 Pennsylvania dairy herds. The investigation involved tracing the movements of animals in 11 states.

"The state and federal people involved in this investigation worked long hours and moved quickly so the disease would not spread," Wolff said. "The longer you wait, the more difficult it is to control an outbreak like this one."

Wolff also commended the affected dairy farmers for their help in stopping the spread of the disease.

"Cooperation from producers made it possible to account for all the animals in a short period of time," he said. "Without that kind of help from dairy farmers, our work would have been slowed, and it could have taken years to achieve TB-Free status."

Super 750 barn cleaner...for pulling up to 700 feet of chain

SUPER 500 DRIVE: The Super 500 spur gear (not roller chain) drive unit handles up to 250 ft. of chain with 2 H.P. up to 350 ft. of chain with 3 H.P. and up to 550 ft. of chain with a 5 H.P. motor.

SUPER 750 DRIVE: The Super 750 drive unit with 7½ H.P. motor handles up to 700 ft. of chain. The main gear is cast from ductile iron to provide the extra strength required for cleaning large barns.
Both units are packed with power and built to last.

J-STAR BARN CLEANER CHAIN - Face The Facts

FICTION: The Stronger the Chain the Longer it will Last...

FACT 1. The life of barn cleaner chain is not directly affected by its tensile strength. The strength of a new chain considerably exceeds the maximum pull of the drive unit. For example, the pull of a J-Star model 750 drive unit - the heaviest and fastest drive on the market - is only 33% of the tensile strength of J-Star's hook link chain. Enough said!!!

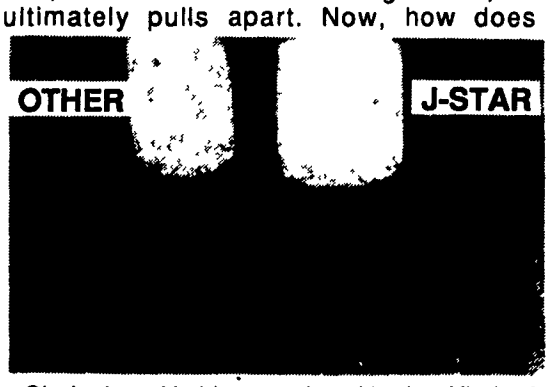
FICTION: All Hook Link Chain is Basically Alike...

FACT 2. The life of barn cleaner chain, for a given installation, is affected by its wear area and hardness. The greater the wear area, and/or the harder the wearing surface, the longer a link will wear before it ultimately pulls apart. Now, how does J-Star chain stack up?

* J-Star chain is hardened by the same process to the same hardness range as all competitive hook link chain — NO DIFFERENCE HERE!

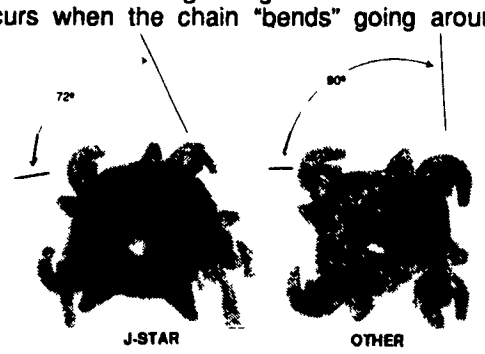
BUT...

* The first point in a chain to fail from wear is usually the end of the eye. J-Star chain, as compared to the other brand for example, has 35% more area in the hook link eye. Note the graphic difference shown below.



FICTION: The Life of a Barn Cleaner Chain has Nothing to do with the Kind of Drive Unit Used With It...

FACT 3. A chain wears at the point where the links contact one another. The rate of wear for a given installation increases as the amount of "grinding" between hook and mating eye increases. This "grinding" occurs when the chain "bends" going around corners, such as corner wheels, reverse curves, hold-down shoes or wheels, and around drive sprockets. Most competitive barn cleaners are about equal in the degree to which they "bend" the chain going through most of these points. HOWEVER - hook link chain does "grind" less when it goes around the J-Star 5-tooth drive sprocket than when it goes around the other brand 4-tooth sprocket.



All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the countours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

Another daily attraction is the Agway "racing pigs" Show featuring the Bob Hale Racing Pigs. The pigs will be performing five shows each day. Each 15-minute show features four heats. The average time for a trained racing pig to run around the 150-foot track is seven seconds.

Thursday, October 4 is Media Day. The Keystone International Livestock Exposition officially begins at 9 a.m. with the Appaloosa horse show. The official opening of the exposition will be held at 5 p.m. with the livestock plaque unveiling ceremony. The media pig race will follow at 6:15 p.m., where local television stations will have their designated animal entered in the competition.

Friday, October 5 is Stockman's Day. The intercollegiate and junior livestock judging contest begins a busy day at 8 a.m. In the same time period, the breeding sheep judging will occur. The quarter horse show begins at 9 a.m. At 10 a.m., breeding swine will be shown, featuring various breeds. Throughout the afternoon, various classes will be conducted, including cattle and sheep. At 5:30 p.m. the Keystone Classic Sale will take place.

Saturday, October 7 is Kids Day. Judging begins at 8 a.m. for feeder calves and sheep and continues throughout the morning. At 9 a.m. the Paso Fino Horse Show is featured. A special attraction at noon is the Keystone Lead Line, an attractive combination, as sheep and shepherd are dressed in their finest.

At noon, Lebanon Valley National Bank is sponsoring the Agri-King Olympics. Farm-related competitive events will be held for children.

Wool judging and the yearling bred ewe sale begin at 2 p.m. Of special interest to parents and children is the kiddie pedal power pull at 3 p.m. sponsored by Evergreen Tractor Sales of Lebanon.

Kathy O'Hara, representative of the Fertilizer Institute, and Dr. Bobby Keen, representative of Southeastern Agrichemical, taught at the PAPA Ambassador Training Seminar on September 20.

PAPA Holds Ambassador Seminar

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association sponsored a seminar on September 20 at Harrisburg to teach members to become ambassadors for the ag chemical and fertilizer industry.

Dr. Bobby Keen, a representative of Southeastern Agrichemical Association, said that the main thrust of the program was to give members facts and confidence when dealing with the public about the benefits and value of agrichemicals and fertilizers.

Kathy O'Hara, a representative from the Fertilizer Institute, told the participants valuable facts about commercial fertilizers.

"Our objective is to train members of PAPA to share a balanced view of our industry when speaking with civic groups and clubs," said Bill Brubaker, executive secretary of PAPA.

For more information on the Ambassador Program or to arrange for a speaker to address your group, call Bill Brubaker (717) 392-7577.

Pennfield Profile

Roy & Sue Crow, Kennedyville, MD

Downsizing for Higher Profits, More Free Time

By focusing on individual cow production, rather than cow numbers, Roy and Sue Crow expect to maximize both their labor efficiency and income. With three boys - Karl 9, Robbie 7 and R.J. 5 - the Crows want to spend as much time as they can on family and community activities, and on travel. This past Spring, the Crows flew to Germany for eight days, leaving their cows in the capable hands of "Farm Sitters" from New York.

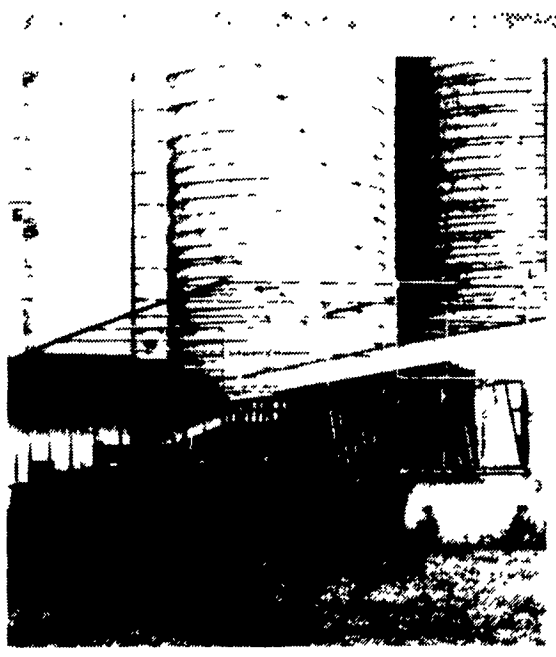
When he took over the farm from his father in 1978, Roy was grinding his own feed. In 1981, he totalled up his equipment and repair costs for feed grinding; factored in the time he was away from the cows, and decided he'd be better off to buy a complete dairy feed. He's been buying his feed ever since.

Cows eat bagged alfalfa or rye silage (baleage) mixed with corn silage twice a day. They eat a pound or two of free choice grass hay daily.

Roy and Sue Crow, with two of the heifers they lease out to 4-H dairy members who have no place to keep their own animals.

Cows get their Pennfield Dairy Feed during milking time - which takes a scant 90 minutes - in the flat barn. All cows receive a high performance Pennfield 18% with flaked soybeans and buffer. Top producing cows are challenge fed Pennfield's new SupraBoost, a super performance feed which contains Megalac and special proteins.

In the past year, the Crows have gradually down-sized the herd, from 80 cows to 50. The philosophy again was to spend more time managing each cow, less time feeding and milking the herd. The approach has worked. In April, one in five of the Crow cows was milking over 100 pounds a day, with the top cow reaching a daily output of 141.5 pounds.



Keeping Cows Cool

Shaded feed bunks (photo above) are a help to all the animals in the Crow operation. Silage in the bunk is consumed by milking and dry cows as well as the heifers.

In warm weather, greenhouse netting is placed over the framework. The shade helps keep the feed from heating up and becoming unpalatable.

A sprinkler system over the baleage feeding area sprays water over the cows in the summer. When the cows are cool, they tend to eat all day.

A Hard-working Couple

Three months after he graduated from the University of Maryland, Roy Crow was in the dairy business. He'd bought heifers from his father, purchased a small group of cows from someone else, and ran his own milk into the bulk tank for the first time on March 1, 1978.

Two years later, January 5, 1980, he and Sue were married. Sue, a 1978 graduate of the University of Delaware, is an integral part of the farm operation.

In 1987, Roy's father retired and left the reins to the farming business in the hands of Roy and Sue. In addition to the cows, the Crows raise 150 acres of corn a year, 50 acres of soybeans which are double-cropped after wheat, 25 acres of alfalfa hay and 25 acres of grass hay. They also have 60 acres of pasture.

A portion of the corn and beans is marketed through Pennfield's Grain Bank program. The wheat is sold directly to a nearby mill.

The Crows' dairying skills have been recognized a number of times by the farming community. In 1983 they were honored with the Outstanding Junior Breeder award from the Maryland Holstein Association. In 1987, the Maryland Farm Bureau presented them with the Maryland Outstanding Young Farmer award.

And the Crows were members of the Pennfield President's Club in 1989, 1987, 1986 and 1985.

Pennfield's Grain Program - A Marketing Tool

You can use your homegrown grain to pay your feed bill with Pennfield's Grain Program. Here's how it works: At harvest time, you send your dried grain to Pennfield. We keep track of how much you've sent us. During the year, as you order feed, you sell us some of that grain with each order. We pay the prevailing market rate at the time you decide to sell, not at the time you deliver the grain to us.

You don't pay any storage costs or brokerage fees yet you have the marketing advantage of spreading your grain sales over the year.

Dairylea Sponsors Milk Quality Session

SYRACUSE, N.Y.— A recent meeting in Towanda, sponsored by Dairylea Copperative Inc., provided area farmers with the opportunity to discuss milk quality issues with quality experts.

Guest speakers for the event were Bob Ormsby, director of member education for the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association, and Steve Spencer, dairy extension specialist at Pennsylvania State University.

Ormsby discussed using DHIA records to pinpoint mastitis problems, and Spencer addressed interpreting bulk tank cultures.

In addition, the economics of mastitis were addressed by Dairylea Farm Resource Specialist Jamie Zimmerman, and milk quality at Dairylea was a topic discussed by Dairylea Regional Manager Bob Manning.

According to Zimmerman, Dairylea sponsored the session in order to provide dairy farmers with information that would assist them in achieving quality premiums for their milk. Such meetings are part of the Cooperative's Farm Management program, which was developed to help members improve their on-farm profitability.

Dear Editor:

On December 20, 1989, you wrote a letter and an editorial to the National Telecommunications and Information Administration expressing support for the Public Telecommunications Facilities Program application from the Agricultural Satellite Corporation.

After an extensive review of the request, we are pleased to announce that the Agricultural Satellite Corporation has been awarded a grant from the PTFP for Fiscal Year 1990.

This year, the PTFP funded approximately 109 applications totalling $19.78 million for projects extending public telecommunications to unserved areas of the country, and maintaining or enhancing essential public broadcasting services. The Agricultural Satellite Corporation was selected from 276 worthwhile applicants for its merit in advancing the goals of the Program.

Enclosed is a project narrative, which includes the amount of Federal funding for the project.

We appreciate your interest in the Public Telecommunications Facilities Program.

Public Telecommunications Facilities Program, U.S. Dept. of Commerce

Atlantic Awards First Jones Scholarships

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative awarded its first Lester C. Jones Sr. scholarships to five deserving college students, who will each receive $500 toward the 1990-1991 academic year.

Established in April, the scholarship is named in memory of Lester C. Jones Sr., who served as president of the cooperative from 1972 to 1981. Jones, of Medford, N.J., farmed for nearly 60 years before his death in January of this year.

The scholarship recognizes those students pursuing careers in dairy or agriculture-related fields, such as this year's winners: Darlene Renee Coover of Carlisle; Benjamin Dum of Elliotsburg; Richard R. Hissong of Mercersburg; Rebecca Ann Sonnen of Richland; and Vicki R. Spencer of Roaring Branch.

Darlene Renee Coover, a daughter of Roy E. and Janice Coover, is a sophomore at Wilson College in Chambersburg. Darlene is majoring in physical and life sciences, with a biology minor. Her future plans are to attend graduate school and become a veterinarian.

Benjamin Dum, son of Benjamin E. and Donna L. Dum, is a senior at Penn State University. Benjamin is majoring in dairy and animal science, with a business option. A member of the Dairy Science Club and the dairy judging team, he plans to farm following graduation.

Richard R. Hissong, a son of Ronald and Judith Hissong, is a sophomore at Penn State University. A graduate of the 1988 Pennsylvania Governor's School for Agricultural Sciences, Richard is majoring in agricultural mechanization. His future plans are to work in dairy and agricultural production.

Rebecca Ann Sonnen, a daughter of Paul and Marilyn Sonnen, is also a sophomore at Penn State University. Rebecca is majoring in agricultural sciences, with a communications minor. A member of the Dairy Science Club and the Collegiate FFA, she plans a career in agricultural communications and public relations.

Vicki R. Spencer, a daughter of Erwin and Dianne L. Spencer, is a senior at Alfred State College in New York. An animal husbandry major, Vicki would like to work with registered dairy cattle following graduation. This summer, she worked as a DHIA milk tester in Tioga County.

Now There's A Farmer In Your Area Who Can Make Any Business Loan The Bank Can.

Since 1917, farmers have taken kindly to Farm Credit because we're owned and controlled by people who really understand your business.

Farmers. Just like yourself. Thing was, we didn't exactly lay out a Sunday dinner spread of loans. Our menu was limited, and we knew it.

So recently we overhauled our lending system. We now offer competitive rates and options for loans we never could offer before.
Adjustable rate mortgages.
Revolving lines of credit.
Variable and fixed rate loans.
Terms of 30 days to 30 years. There's even a variety of services including insurance plans.

Some things do remain the same, however. The Farm Credit loan officer you talk to still makes most of the decisions.

And chances are he can do it faster than most bankers can say "bureaucracy."

So think about this for a moment. Who would you rather deal with for your next loan? A banker who merely wants your business. Or a farmer who knows it.

TIMONIUM, MD — Becky and Cindy Bell from Elmer, NJ, exhibited the Grand Champion Ayrshire at the Maryland State Fair.

The sisters purchased their champion, as a two-year-old, at the All American Sale in Harrisburg in 1986. This six-year-old beauty only freshened ten days earlier and caught Judge John Morris's eye.

Mr. Morris, retired secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Holstein Association and former coach of dairy judging teams at the University of Maryland, judged the open class show.

Lebanon Agriculture Services Take New Residence

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Starting Monday agricultural services in Lebanon County will never be the same.

All agricultural services are to be relocating from their current widespread offices to a central Lebanon Valley Agricutlural Center, located at the county fair grounds.

The five agencies to move into the one building are the USDA Farmers Home Administration (FHA), the county extension office, the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS), the Lebanon County Conservation District, and the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Of those offices, the SCS office will be closed for business Monday to make the move. The conservation district is to be closed both Monday and Tuesday. The ASCS office will be closed Tuesday. The extension office is to be closed Thursday.

Except for the extension office, all telephone numbers will remain the same. The new number for the extension service will be 270-4391.

The move culminates several years of work from various agencies and levels of government to bring the various service agencies under one roof. For a number of years the various offices have been located miles apart.

Early this year, the Lebanon Valley Exposition Corporation, after purchasing additional acreage to the Lebanon Fairgrounds, broke ground on the site announcing the start of construction.

According to officials, construction is on schedule.

The change of location will temporarily restrict some of the services available to residents. However, officials say they expect the all offices to be running will equal efficiency and promptness within several weeks.

An open house of the extension facility is tentatively scheduled for early spring, according to Kenneth Winebark, county agent.

Hess Tops Hog Championship At West Lampeter Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Four years of exhibiting hogs paid off well for Jay Hess, 15, Conestoga, a Penn Manor sophomore and FFA.

Hess was honored for his champion market hog, a Duroc cross gilt, that appealed to Henry Gruber, a New Tripoli Duroc and Hampshire breeder, Wednesday at the West Lampeter Fair.

Gruber liked the hog because of its leanness and advised the FFA and 4-H members to keep an eye on the industry and what it demands. Jay said he was careful how he cared for and fed the hog that helped him win the championship.

Jay also won champion lightweight classes I and III, medium weight classes II and III, and was champion lightweight and medium weight as well.

Beth Dearolf, 17, a Solanco senior from New Providence, won reserve championship for the first time. She exhibited a Duroc/Hampshire cross gilt and said she didn't do "anything different" to raise a champion. She has exhibited hogs for two years.

The senior showmanship honors at the fair went to Doug Metzler for his York/Landrace cross barrow. Junior showmanship honors went to Charles Garrett for his York barrow.

First-Time Exhibitor Wins Grand Lamb At Ephrata

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Those who think a championship can't be won a first time should think again.

Because on Wednesday afternoon, a first-time Ephrata Fair market lamb exhibitor, Tracy Bollinger, 13, Manheim, won grand champion market lamb honors for her Dorset wether lamb.

Tracy has been exhibiting sheep four years overall. But this was her first year exhibiting sheep at Ephrata.

It only took two years before Kendall Reiff, 13, Ephrata, picked up reserve champion market lamb for his Hampshire wether lamb.

Exhibiting sheep for 11 years also helped garner a Garden Spot graduate, Jeff Martin, 19, East Earl, a champion showman honor at the show. Amy Bollinger, 11, a fifth grader at Lititz Christian, won reserve showmanship championship at the fair.

The highlight of the show was the awarding of the grand champion ram, which went to Jerry Bollinger for his Suffolk yearling ram. Jerry, 15, is a sophomore at Ephrata High School, is a member of 4-H and FFA, and has been exhibiting for three years. The reserve ram was won by Doug Martin for his Cheviot ram lamb.

Jessica Stoltzfus, 10, from East High near Elizabethtown, won champion ewe. She is a 4-H member and has been exhibiting sheep for two years. Travis Donough, 10, Sporting Hill Elementary, Manheim, won reserve ewe. This is also his second year and he is a member of 4-H.

Overall grand champion of the breeding sheep was Jerry Bollinger. Champion of the reserve overall breeding sheep was Jessica Stoltzfus.

In all, there was a total of 22 exhibitors at the show, and about 95 sheep, including 34 market lambs, nine carcass sheep, and 52 breeding sheep. Judge for the show was Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester Co. livestock agent.

Following is a list of show placings.

Dairy Pipeline

perhaps when they are dried off. And, a little clean bedding or a grassy lot never hurts a cow or heifer.

Cow Longevity

If you can increase a cow's longevity from 2.5 or 3.0 lactations to about 4.0 or 5.0 lactations you will probably double her lifetime profits. If you accomplish this for the entire herd, herd profits could double, and it's done without the cost of expanding facilities or increasing herd size.

When you consider all costs, cash and non-cash, it may cost you in the neighborhood of $1200 to raise a heifer to calving age. A cow may have to milk 1 to 1.5 lactations to recover this cost, just to break even for the first time in her life. Once this cost is recovered, each additional lactation becomes a profitable lactation. Also, with each succeeding lactation, she becomes more productive and more profitable.

The longer you keep a cow, the more heifers she'll have and the fewer replacements you'll need. That means you now have the luxury of being able to choose only your best heifers to keep and raise as replacements. This speeds up the rate at which you can make genetic improvements to the herd. The heifers you no longer need can be culled or sold as breeding stock. Because you have reduced the number of replacements needed, you now have less need for heifer housing and you won't need to raise, store or purchase as much feed.

How long should you keep cows and what is a good culling rate? This answer keeps changing as conditions vary. The price of cull cows is a major factor. When the margin between cull cow prices and the cost of replacements narrows, you can afford to cull more rapidly. The same is true when the margin of profit per cow increases, because you recover the cost of replacements more rapidly.

Another culling concern is, you need to create opportunities to bring in some well bred replacements on a regular basis to upgrade the herd genetically. So, when you consider all this, 3 to 5 lactations may be a good range to shoot for. However, the actual culling rate that you are able to attain will be dictated to a large degree by the way you house and feed your heifers and cows, and by the care you give them in the months prior to and after calving.

Extension Agent Family Warns: Prepare For Fire

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — On January 5, 1990, Marie Walker learned more than she ever wanted to know about fire. She learned how swiftly and completely things are destroyed. She also learned how one can help prevent and prepare for something that no one is every prepared for.

"It's something you never think will happen to you," Marie said. Marie and her husband Gordon Walker, an extension agent in Mifflin County, built a new, brick home 12 years ago. With smoke detectors installed and a new insurance policy, a house fire was the last thing on their minds. But 12 years later, on a cold January day, fire became the only thing on their minds.

At 12:00 noon, Marie and son Gary were eating lunch. While eating, Gary mentioned smelling smoke. They walked outside, taking a few minutes, and Gary left. Back in the house, Marie's daughter-in-law Cathy called to say she would soon pick up Kierstin, Marie's granddaughter who was sleeping in the front bedroom.

"I had to cut her off. I said, 'Cathy, I smell smoke. I'll call you back'"

That's when Marie opened the cellar door and smoke poured out. She hurried to the outside cellar door and found the cellar full of smoke.

"I went back to the kitchen to use the phone, but the phone was dead. Smoke was coming out from the dishwasher, the stove, the cupboards. I woke up Kierstin in the front bedroom, got her dressed, got my coat, and tried to get to the back bedroom for my car keys, but I couldn't get there. Until I could get out of the hallway and outside, the house was completely full of smoke. I turned around and look back and the windows were just black."

Marie emphasizes that all this took place in just minutes. Marie walked to Cathy's home, a quarter mile away. Cathy saw Marie coming and called the fire company, who arrived within 15 minutes. The fire started because of a cracked crock in the chimney, and was burning between the basement ceiling and the floor above. "The fire chief said this was the first house they lost because they couldn't find the fire. When the floors gave way, everything went down. But the firemen couldn't have been better. They were exceptional people. They wanted to know if there was anything very important and if we knew where it was. They would try to go in for us."

As a result, the firemen saved Marie's jewelry and some of Gordon's guns. Five fire companies responded, five firemen were injured, three hospitalized, and the house was declared a total loss.

The aftershock of such a tragedy brings with it a whole range of emotions - bitterness, depression, frustration, and thankfulness that no one lost their life.

The Walker family has always been close, and after the fire Marie and Gordon stayed with Neal, Cathy and Kierstin. "The insurance company offered to provide a motel as long as needed, but at a time like this, you need family. It would have been awful to go through it by ourselves."

Friends from church were the first to come with food. Marie's Sunday School class gave a shower to help replace what was lost. Banks set up trusts through which people could donate. "It took a long time to get thank-you notes out, but it's never too late to say thank-you".

After the fire, so many people called wanting to help, but the insurance company wouldn't allow anything to be touched - no cleaning up.

Dealing with the insurance company became increasingly frustrating. "The day of the fire the insurance adjuster asks questions and writes while you try to talk - they catch you at a weak moment". While watching the house smolder, Marie was asked how much they spent each week on food, and for a copy of their electric bill which burned!

"When you don't buy meat at the grocery store, and you bake your own bread, and you go to the store every three-four weeks, you don't figure in all those things," she said.

Marie went on to say, "The hassle with the insurance company and listing the contents, I think, was worse than the fire. We had to list every item, a description of it, how old it was, what kind of shape it was in, and replacement value." Replacement values are found in magazines, catalogues, department stores, jewelry stores, anywhere an exact replica can be found or a comparable one. "You had to list the catalogue and page number. If it was a jeweler, which jeweler, location and the clerk who waited on you."

Finding a replacement value may seem a tall task, but the task before that is even more overwhelming - the job of listing every item.

"They wanted every item. Shoes - how many did you have? How old? What shape were then in? Bedding - how many pairs of sheets and pillowcases? Books - I can't begin to remember the quilt books? I propbably lost some 40-45, some I knew, but many I didn't. All of Gordon's reference books for teaching Sunday School and Bible studies are gone. The kitchen - all the condiments - everything. So you go to the grocery store, to up one aisle and down the other, trying to remember what you had in your cupboard and get a price. You try to remember, but you don't, even if you go room by room. If you didn't have to do that for the insurance company, it wouldn't bring back all the memories day after day after day."

Evan Riegert, Gordon and Marie Walker's grandson, keeps warm with a red sweater Marie knitted.

It's hard to imagine listing every possession. How do you count, from memory, all the Golden Books, each toy being kept for the grandchildren, and every Christmas ornament?

Harder still is being asked to put a dollar value on some things that were as familiar as a family member.

Walkers' home, like so many homes, embodied an accumulation of not only material items, but items with stories. "Forty years were in that house - everything we had was there. And most things in our house told a story - we either bought it from someone we knew, it was a family members', or it was given from a grandparent. So many of these things were designated to go to each one of the children."

Gordon's mother had given a set of china to be used by Marie and Gordon, then handed down to Neal. The silver would have gone to Gary. Because of the fire, Walker's cherished grandfather clock, a one-of-a-kind made for Gordon's grandfather in Scotland, cannot be passed to the first Walker grandson. Lost are wedding photo albums and slides of when the children were little. But of the things most cherished, is the family Bible.

"That's probably the one thing I miss the most - the family Bible from my parents. Mother was there over the holiday and updated the family tree," Marie explained.

Gone also is Marie's handiwork. The baby gifts for daughter Nancy never made it to the shower held the Sunday after the fire. "I had made the baby a quilt and knitted an afghan. I had made Gordon's niece a crocheted shawl, and all my quilts are gone. Most quilts I usually gave away, but there were two from Gordon's mother, one on each bed, and I had the first three I made." (Marie started quilting in 1966 and has made 26 quilts.)

At the time of the fire, Marie had, on the frame, a sampler for Gordon two-thirds completed. She also had finished three quilt tops, one candlewicked, one appliqued, one pieced, all ready to be quilted for the grandchildren.

As a result of the fire, family members and close friends have checked their insurance policies and have updated the coverage.

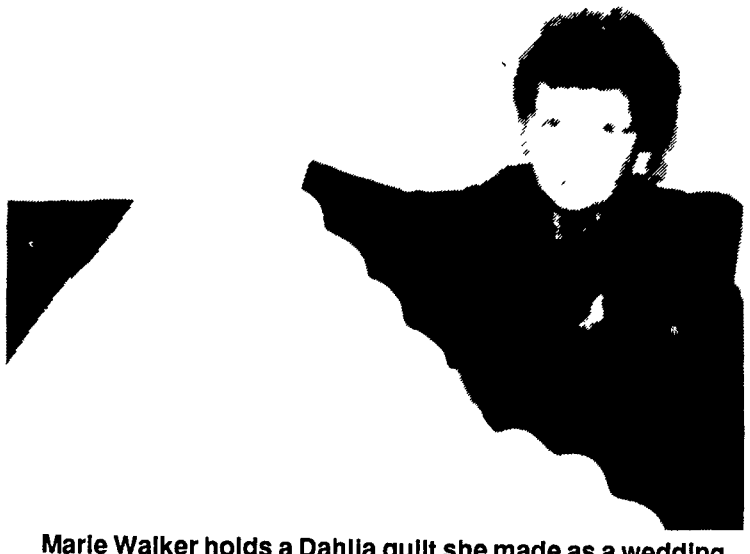
"Replacement cost isn't always the replacement cost of today's value. We thought we had replacement cost, but it has taken everything from the house and contents just to rebuild."

To ease the overwhelming task of an itemized list, some family members have video-taped everything in their homes, opening closet doors and kitchen cupboards.

Smoke detectors should be hung and batteries checked annually. Photos should be taken and policies updated and stored in a safe-deposit box.

With a little foresight and effort, preparations could be taken to, most importantly, save a life, to prevent a fire, or to prepare for something no one is ever really prepared for - a fire.

This latchhook Canadian Goose rug is an example of many of the hand-made items lost in the fire.



Marie Walker holds a Dahlia quilt she made as a wedding gift for her daughter Nancy. When Walker's home burned in January, irreplaceable heirlooms were destroyed, including Marie's handiwork, Gordon's guns and carvings, and antiques that were destined for the Walker's grandchildren. "It's not just our loss, the whole family is affected", Marie commented.

CRUNCHY, NUTTY COOKIE FUN

How do you turn cookie baking into a jar full of fun for your youngsters? By inviting your family to help you make and decorate festive "Peanut Butter Shortbred Bars."

Youngsters love to stick their hands into whatever's happening in the kitchen. Why not let them help you mix the ingredients and sprinkle the delectable nuts and candies on top of these crunchy creations? "Peanut Butter Shortbread Bars" are a delightful twist on traditional, buttery shortbread. They are rich, peanut buttery bars speckled with peanuts, pecans, candy-coated chocolate, butterscotch chips and whatever else tickles your fancy.

The holidays are just around the corner. If the holidays aren't reason enough to try your hand at these special cookies, 1990 marks the 100th anniversary of their single most important ingredient - peanut butter. That's right. Peanut butter, consumed by approximately 40 million Americans every day, was invented 100 years ago by a St. Louis physician. Now, it's American's #1 sandwich spread.

Peanut butter has as much fiber as two slices of whole wheat bread, is a great source of niacin, zinc, magnesium and potassium. One serving of the delectable spread supplies 15% of an adult's daily protein needs.

In honor of this centennial celebration, and in honor of the merriest and busiest of seasons, bakeup a batch of these bars. Better yet, bake several batches, decorate and place whole uncut bars in plastic freezer bags. Later, you can cut into individual bars and serve or give as holiday gifts! You can get a real head-start on the holidays by doing your "gift-baking" early this fall. These cookies keep perfectly when frozen, emerging as fresh as the day you baked them.

Peanut Butter Shortbread Bars

2 cups and 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup cold butter or margarine
1 cup peanut butter, divided
⅔ cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons milk
½ cup chopped pecans
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate chips or chopped candy coated chocolate candies or chopped chocolate covered toffee candy

Combine flour, sugar and cornstarch in a medium bowl. Using a pastry blender, cut in butter or margarine and ½ cup peanut butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. (Mixture will be dry). Press mixture into a 9x9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 40 minutes. Allow to cool. Mix confectioners' sugar, remaining 1/2 cup peanut butter and milk until blended and spread on top of shortbread. Sprinkle top with nuts and choice of crushed toppings, pressing lightly. Cut into 2"x1" bars.

Makes 24 bars. To crush toppings, place in a plastic storage bag and press lightly with a wooden mallet or rolling pin.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Faint movement in the loose straw beneath the bale I'd just picked off the barn floor caught my attention.

A closer look sent me tearing out of the barn, screaming.

"Here kitty, kitty, kitty, kitty!"

Nothing. Not a cat in sight.

"Here kitty, kitty, kitty, kitty!"

There was only one course of logical action to pursue.

(Now, if you have a weak stomach, or are eating dinner, or believe that certain small, disease-carrying, property-destructive rodents nevertheless have inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, please stop reading right now and go on to the commodity markets, or the cartoons, or the classifieds. The following contains explicit and descriptive violent scenes.)

Absent the assistance of a cat, I'd have to deal with the family of mice hiding in the straw single-handedly. Or footed-ly, in this case, as I simply stomped my booted foot on the first mouse to give away its location with a wiggle in the loose straw. (See, I warned you about the violence.)

"Here kitty, kitty, kitty, kitty!"

Finally. Taking her good old time, moseying up the slope to the bank barn's sliding doors, walked Nosey. Nosey is one of our best feline mothers and a skilled hunter. One of our several black-and-white "Holstein" cats, Nosey has a white face with a distinctive jet-black nose marking, distinguishable even from a considerable distance. Nearly every day, she marches off to the heifer pasture, or climbs atop a stack of round bales in the meadow, in pursuit of tasty snacks of tender mice and moles.

Nosey, however, had just finished breakfast with the rest of the pack of milk-fed barn cats. Most likely I'd called her from a post-breakfast nap, or a round of nursing her three, fat, roly-poly kittens. She displayed not the slightest sign of interest in rooting through the straw for the now-vanishing mice.

From the direction of the silos came Socks. A big male, Socks recently reappeared, after a several-week absence, at the cat-feteria of three five-gallon-bucket lids from which the cats lap their feedings of fresh, warm milk. I had to practically stuff the now-limp mouse in his face before he even paid attention.

"A lot of help you are," I grumbled to the tail end of the disappearing cat, heading off with the rodent I'd slain.

Another movement in the straw. Another stomp of the foot.

And about that time, the calvary came riding over the hill to the rescue. Well, not a whole regiment, just Mamma Gray. This sleek, swift female feline is THE cat to have by your side on the front lines of the never-ending haymow mouse raids.

I'll take one Mamma Gray over any ten over-fed, lazy tomcats who want to simply lounge around within seeing distance of the cat dishes. Once I called her for a mouse that had fallen down the chute for heifer feed. She still comes prowling around that chute looking for another quick catch — and the original incident took place at least two years ago.

Mamma Gray promptly gobbled (remember, I warned you about the violence) down the remaining limp mouse, then went into a sniffing, pawing frenzy through the pile of loose straw and snagged another of the unwelcome rodents.

But at least as many as we'd gotten — or more — had wiggled away to hiding niches somewhere in the barn floor. Mamma Gray will remember them. And she'll be back. After all, she has four of her own fuzzy, gray babies to feed.

Cats sprawled in all directions down at the entrance to the barn's lower level.

"You're worthless!" I announced in disgust to the napping felines. One of the fuzzy gray kittens came prancing up to my feet. I picked it up, snuggled it under my neck and it began to purr.

Well, not completely worthless. . . . . .

Shepherd, Sheep To Show Modeling Talents

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Who looks better, the sheep or the shepherd? Judges will tell at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition Shepherd's Lead Line Competition to be held on Saturday, October 6, precisely at Noon in the Farm Show Complex.

The objectives of this class are to present a class of yearling ewes in an attractive manner and give spectators an opportunity to see the best of the sheep industry.

The normal procedure at a Livestock Show is for the animal to be all primped and lovely, but in the Lead Line Competition the Leads person is also in the limelight. Both are to be dressed fashionably in their best wool outfit of at least 80% wool.

Not just another pretty face can steal our show. Our herdsperson must not only look terrific, but our sheep must also show their modeling talents. The contestants and the sheep must be able to work together in the ring.

The Keystone International Livestock Exposition is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Livestock Association in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Products Show Commission.

KILE Family Day Planned

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Keystone International Livestock Exposition has scheduled Sunday, October 7, as a special day for the family. Begin the day at 8:00 a.m. with a sunrise church service for the entire family.

Bring your family and enjoy the many attractions of the Livestock Exposition. Dr. Happy LaClaire and "Blaze", his balloon-blowing goat will be performing throughout the day. Blaze will amaze you and your youngsters with his balloon-blowing feats. Ed and Geraldine Berbaum will stroll through the complex entertaining you with songs. BJ, the puppet, and his Comedy Car will be on hand to delight young and old alike.

Agway Racing Pigs will present six shows througout the day. Experience the thrill as the pigs race to the finish. Each 15 minute show features four heats.

Educational Exhibits are displayed throughout the Farm Show complex. The Kessler's Barnyard will be open all day. Ag Commodity Food Booths are set up to tantalize your tastebuds.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

With your microwave, food processor, and some short cuts, you'll speed preparation of many favorite potato dishes. Potatoes for hash browns are shredded in an instant and precooked by microwaves to speed frying. German potato salad cooks fast because the potatoes are shredded before microwaving and the sweet-sour dressing needs no cooking.

These two recipes are great for a microwave meal because other foods can be microwaved while hash browns fry or while Easy German Potato Salad (below) cools and flavors through.

My brother-in-law, Jim Fairley of Coon Rapids, Minn., invented Speedy Hash Browns because he liked homemade hash browns but not all the hassle of hand-shredding and of trying to get the potatoes done in the inside while not overbrowned on the outside.

With this recipe, you precook shredded potatoes in your microwave, then fry them in a small non-stick skillet with a tiny bit of oil. I've discovered a way to freeze these and use up now-plentiful potatoes, so I've included those directions after the recipe.

Speedy Hash Browns

1 large potato, peeled if desired
Cooking oil
Salt and pepper to taste

Lightly oil 2 microwavable cereal bowls or 6-inch saucers; set aside. With food processor's shredding disc and medium pressure, shred potato (or use large holes of hand grater). Divide shreds between the 2 dishes. Place dishes in microwave. Microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until potatoes are partially cooked. Heat a skillet and add a small amount of oil. Brown hash brown patties on both sides. Season to taste and serve hot. Makes 2 servings.

For more servings: Increase amount of potatoes, but microwave only 2 patties at a time. You may stir potatoes during frying instead of leaving them in patties.

Freezer hash browns: Line a microwavable 6-inch-diameter cereal bowl or individual casserole with enough plastic wrap to extend over edges for covering. Add about ½ cup shredded potatoes; cover loosely with the plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 2 minutes. Cool about 15 minutes; then freeze. When frozen, remove patty (still in plastic wrap) from dish and place in a freezer bag or container; seal tightly. Patties keep about 2 months.

To cook freezer hash browns: Place plastic wrap packet in microwave. Microwave (High) 1 to 2 minutes per patty or until thawed and warm. Fry in a small amount of hot oil until golden brown and crispy. Season to taste. Serve hot.

Each serving — about ½ cup: 196 calories, 3g protein, 14g fat, 0 carbohydrate, 6mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Easy German Potato Salad

6 slices bacon, diced
1 small onion, peeled and quartered
4 medium-size "boiling" potatoes
¾ cup water
1 teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
6 tablespoons cider or herb-flavored vinegar
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ - ⅓ cup water

Place bacon in microwavable 2-quart casserole; cover with paper towel and microwave (High) 4 to 6 minutes or until bacon is crisp. With a slotted spoon, remove bacon and set aside. Leave about 3 tablespoons' drippings in casserole and set aside.

While bacon cooks, prepare onion and potatoes. With food processor's steel knife, add onion to work bowl; process with on-off pulses until onion is finely chopped. Carefully remove steel knife and insert shredding or julienne disc. With medium pressure, process potatoes. (Or finely chop onion with a knife and shred potatoes with large holes of hand grater.)

Add potatoes and onion to bacon drippings. Stir in ¾ cup water, celery seed, salt and pepper. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 8 to 9 minutes, stirring once, until potatoes are tender. Stir in vinegar, sugar, cooked bacon, and ¼ to ⅓ cup water, depending on desired thickness. (Dressing thickens from starch in potatoes.) Let stand, covered, 15 to 30 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Questions and answers —

Q. Please tell me how to prepare potatoes in the skin. The trouble is that they burn and aren't too good eating.

A. Try microwaving them a shorter time and then allow standing time. A medium potato takes about 3½ to 4 minutes in a 650- to 700-watt microwave oven. Check it for doneness after about 3 minutes. Stop microwaving when a fork can pierce into the center of the potato, but the potato still feels slightly undone in the center. Be sure to let potatoes stand about 5 minutes to finish cooking. Let them stand either in your microwave, or take them out and wrap each in foil, or put them all in a casserole and cover it tightly.

Q. How do you get pretzels or crackers crisp again?

A. Remove them from their package and put on a microwave-safe plate or in a microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on High until slightly warm. Time depends on amount, but generally it takes about 15 to 20 seconds for a cupful. Pretzels or crackers will still be soft, but let them stand a few minutes and they'll crisp.

Try Cooking With Seafood

The number one rule in fish and shellfish preparation is not to over cook. Seafoods become tough and lose much of their flavor if over cooked. Fish cooked to perfection will have lost its translucent look and will be opaque, white and flake easily. Cook to an internal temperature of 140 degrees.

For ideas on how to cook seafood, write to the National Fisheries Institute, 2000 M Street, NW Suite 580, Washington, DC 20036 or call (202) 296-3428 for recipe releases.

CRISPY BAKED FILLETS

1 pound fish fillets
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons oil
⅓ cup cornflake crumbs

Wash and dry fillets. Cut into serving pieces. Season, dip in oil, and coat with cornflake crumbs. Arrange in a single layer in a lightly oiled shallow baking dish. Bake at 500 degrees for 10 minutes without turning or basting. Serves 4.

QUESTION — A reader asks for a recipe for Davy Crockett cookie bars.

ANSWER — Kendra Hilt of Barto wrote that approximately 20 years ago, one of the major baking companies sold a chocolate pudding cake mix. It was a very moist cobbler-like mix that was probably 60-70 percent pudding that actually baked between and through the cake. She wanted information on which company sold it or a recipe that tastes similar. Thanks to Beth Brenneman of Bittinger, Md.; Barbara Randall, Holcomb, N.Y., and to Ressa Owens of Beech Creek; and Dottie Yautz, Easton, for sending recipes that sound similar to the cake mix.

ANSWER — Edith Moore, Pennington, N.J., asked how to use unsalted peanuts. Thanks to Eva Southard, Glen Rock; Roxie Sowers, Burkittsville, Md., and to Linda Fisher, Mifflin Co. Dairy Princess who writes that she loves promoting dairy products and one of her family's favorite recipes uses unsalted peanuts.

Pudding Dessert

1¼ cups unsalted peanuts
1 cup flour
1 4-ounce stick butter
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup dairy whipped cream
2 packages chocolate instant pudding
4 cups milk

Mix together nuts, flour, and butter. Pat into 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

Mix together cream cheese, powdered sugar, and dairy whipped cream. Spread on cooled crust.

Mix together instant pudding mix with milk. Pour over cheese layer. Chill for several hours. Frost with more whipped cream. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts. Serves 12.

Chocolate Pudding Cake

1 large package cake mix, vanilla or chocolate

Mix as directed on box; pour into greased 9x13-inch pan and bake as directed. Remove from oven when done and poke holes in cake with the round handle of a wooden spoon. Make holes one inch apart. Mix 2 packages instant chocolate pudding, 4 cups cold milk and 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Pour over cake...pudding will sink into holes. Spread any remaining pudding on top of cake. Cool and serve.

Peanut Brittle

⅛ teaspoon soda
1 cup unsalted peanuts
2 cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Lightly grease a cookie sheet. Measure soda and peanuts; set aside until needed.

Put sugar and salt in heavy skillet; place over medium heat. Stir sugar constantly and press out lumps. When sugar is completely melted, remove the skillet from the heat. Immediately add soda and peanuts. Stir just enough to mix. Work very quickly or the mixture won't pour out of the pan on to the cookie sheet. When cool, break into pieces. Makes 1 pound.

Cook's Question

Peanut Brittle

2 cups sugar
1 cup white Karo syrup

Bring sugar and syrup to a rolling boil. Add 2 tablespoons butter and 2 cups raw peanuts. Stir constantly for 12 minutes. Take off stove and add 2½ teaspoons soda. Stir and spread on big greased pizza pan. Break up with back of knife after the candy is cooled.

ANSWER — Several weeks ago, a reader requested a recipe for peanut butter meltaways. Several recipes were printed, but none were for candy. Thanks to Marcia Wysocki, Stoystown, who sent what she believes is the recipe that was requested.

Peanut Butter Meltaways

1½ pounds chocolate (may be milk, semi-sweet, peanut butter chocolate or a mixture)
⅓ cup melted vegetable shortening (not oil)
18-ounce jar peanut butter

Melt chocolate stirring until smooth. Add melted shortening and peanut butter beating until just blended. Pour into bowl and chill until the consistency of soft custard. Occasionally, scrape from the sides and bottom of the bowl. Beat with an electric mixer about 30 seconds; do not over beat. Pour out on waxed paper lined 10x13-inch pan. Place a sheet of waxed paper on top of batch and level off. Let stand in cool place until firm but not hard. Cut into squares; leave in pan until ready to dip into milk chocolate. Makes approximately 80 pieces. When dipping, work quickly as the mixture will soften.

You can make Mint Meltaways similar to Peppermint Patties by omitting the peanut butter, increasing the vegetable shortening to ⅔ cup, and add 3 or 4 drops peppermint oil. You may want to use white chocolate as the base ingredient and then coat with milk chocolate. This is also good to dip Ritz crackers into for a refreshing mint cookie.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Yesterday my sister and her husband, who live in Michigan, came to our home for dinner. We had a nice big meal of meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, corn on the cob, fresh green beans from my garden, pickles, brown bread, raspberry jelly with applesauce and chocolate zucchini cake that I'd baked that morning. This was the fifth big cake that I had made as my husband likes zucchini best used this way.

The previous day, we four sisters had gotten together for lunch. One sister was on vacation in Nova Scotia and could not attend but we had a nice visit anyway. This has become an annual event in addition to our summer picnic and Christmas gathering for extended families of our children and grandchildren. Long ago my parents started summer picnics in our meadow.

As the years go by, we seem to be more interested in our families and their history. Therefore, my sister and I spent the afternoon looking at genealogy charts, old photo books and quite old record books.

Since I have many old pictures, I've loaned some to authors and book publishers. One time I was surprised to see that a double page spread had been made of my father's 1923 Overland car and our family on a dirt road in Maryland.

As the original Weidler homestead, our house was also featured in a hard-back book published by a woman from Texas. One picture shows the walk-in fireplace in the kitchen and the corner cupboard in the diningroom.

My sister laughed when she saw some of my records on an opened, big, white shopping bag. You see, one day about 20 years ago, I took this big piece of paper to my parents home and asked them to tell me the names of all of their relatives. It was quite a list as one grandfather was one of 15 children. Some of this information has been helpful in completing records.

FFA Plans Job Fair

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Red Rose FFA Chapter will be hosting a job fair at the Ephrata Recreation Center on Wednesday, October 24.

The county association's officers have conducted a job fair for the past three years to give local agribusinesses and high school FFA members a chance to interact and learn more about each other. The students find out about the many different types of jobs available in the field of agriculture and the businesses, get to meet and converse with soon-to-be members of the areas work force.

The Red Rose FFA is a chapter of the National FFA Association — An organization for students in agricultural education. The organization promotes the acquisition of knowledge and skills in the field of agriculture and develops inter-personal and leadership skills that are valuable traits of any good employee and community member.

The event itself has proven to be a valuable educational experience for the students as well as a powerful recruiting instrument for the local agribusinesses.

If your company or business is interested in participating this year, please contact Mr. Carey Kalupson, c/o Solanco High School Agriculture Dept., 585 Solanco Rd., Quarryville, Pa. 17566 (717) 786-2151 for more information.

Family Celebration Day To Be Held

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Extension Home Economist

NEW BLOOMFIELD (Perry Co.) — The Family Issues Task Force of Perry County has once again planned an exciting "Celebrate The Family Day" for Saturday, October 6, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Greenwood Elementary School in Millerstown.

This is the second year of this event spear-headed by Jane Mecum, home economist for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Perry County.

Comprised of a dozen individuals from various agencies in Perry County, the Family Issues Task Force addresses the different needs of the families in their community and then works cooperatively to best serve and educate the residents in the county. One of its major tasks is the Celebrate The Family Day.

"Our major goal is to provide a family activity. We aim to have something for the entire family — no matter what age!" said Lori Lower, director of Children & Youth Services. She explained that while the primary goal was to provide a family activity, a great benefit that came out of the planning was that agencies found out what other services and resources are available in the county that they did not know about prior to their task group being formed.

Last year the event was held at Susquenita School in Marysville and attracted more than 300 people. By moving it to a different location the committee hopes to reach families who weren't able to participate last year. This annual event slated for the first part of October will continue to move to various parts of the county so as not to eliminate any residents due to distance.

"Celebrate the Family Day" will provide educational information to families through the use of exhibits and presentations. All the exhibits are family focused. Highlights for this year include Duncannon Health Center doing on-site cholesterol screenings. Perry County Human Services will address drug issues, Children and Youth's focus will be on foster families and Penn State Cooperative Extension will offer water testing for pH, nitrates and solids. The 4-H Clubs of Perry County will also feature a petting zoo for children. And kids, don't miss Ronald McDonald in the afternoon! Many other exhibits and demonstrations will also be on hand throughout the entire event.

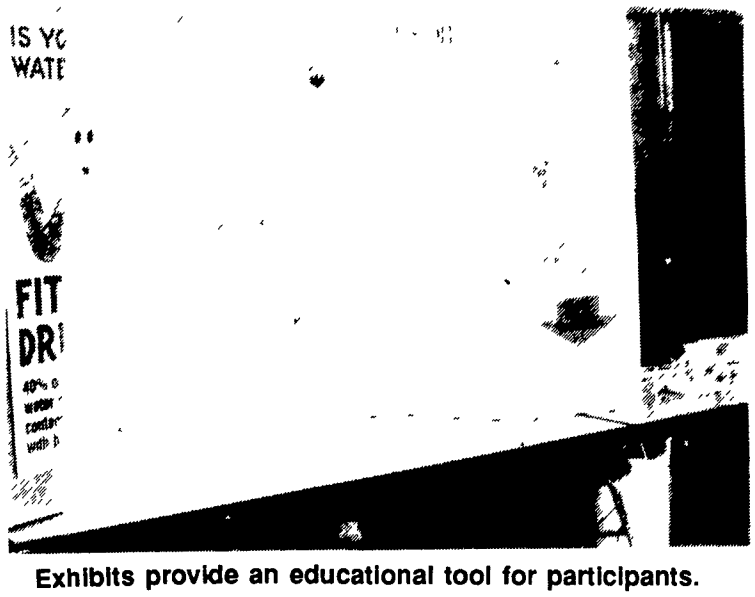
There is no registration for the day's festivities. Come any time from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The featured speaker Mary Laeger-Hagemeister, Dauphin County Extension home economist addressing "Celebrate Your Family Through Traditions" will be presented from 10:30 to 11:15.

"One of the programs that we want to draw special attention to this year is the SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) chapter at Greenwood. They will be handing out Hershey Kisses to people who arrive wearing their seat belts. In addition, they will also be tying red ribbons on the car antennas in awareness not to drink and drive," remarked Lori Lower.

Also it's not too late for Perry County families to enter the photo contest. Entries will be judged in three categories: Family Humor, Family Warmth, and Special Moment. All entries must be in by October 3. For further information, contact Jane Mecum at 582-2131.

With such a variety of events slated, pack up your family and join the Family Issues Task in Celebrating Your Family at Greenwood Elementary School and have a day of FUN!

A petting zoo offers children an opportunity to experience farm animals.



Exhibits provide an educational tool for participants.

Kiddie Pedal-Power Tractor Pull

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Keystone International Livestock Exposition to be held in Harrisburg, from 4-8, is not only adult-oriented. A special event geared for the youngsters is the Kiddie Pedal-Power Tractor Pull to be held on Saturday, October 6 at 3:00 p.m. The event is sponsored by Evergreen Tractor Sales of Lebanon.

What exactly is a Kiddie Pedal-Power Tractor Pull? It is very similar to the big tractor pulls featured across the nation. A pedal tractor is hooked to a small sled, complete with a moving weight box just like the big ones. The distance each child pulls the weight sled is measured and recorded. Weights are added for each higher class.

All children are encouraged to enter the competition. Children pull according to their age. There will be six classes for children between the ages of 3 to 8 years; one for each age group. Children must register for this event at the Exposition. Registration begins at 1:30. The event is limited to 80 participants. Each child will receive a participating ribbon.

York 4-H Leader Retires With Tears

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

EAST BERLIN (York Co.) — "I believe 4-H is the best organization that kids can get involved with. In 4-H, they learn by doing," says Jane Thompson.

That observation doesn't come without the experience to back it up. East Berlin dairy farm women Jane Thompson retired this year as a club leader, after 30 years of sharing her knowledge and experience with two generations of York County 4-H'ers.

But this veteran home-ec and dairy club leader's years with the rural youth program have deeper roots, into her own 4-H membership in Bucks County. She grew up there, the oldest of five, helping with farm and field chores.

"We were a poor poultry-farm family," Jane smiles, "And we went to town once a week. I read in the paper about 4-H and wanted very much to join, especially to be out with people."

When Jane was about 14, her aunt invited her to go along to the county's 4-H Club activities. Her project that first year was raising a Black Angus steer.

Members acquired their project animals differently at that time than is done now. Bucks county agent William Greenawalt purchased a group of steers for the members, who drew numbers for the animal which would be their beef project. No beef club meetings were held; members who needed advice or assistance called their club leader.

"The first year I had the lightweight champion. And I loved the people, being with other kids my age, and the competion," recalls Jane.

In subsequent years, Jane added sewing, cooking and raising capons to her beef porject. Members could then continue club work until they were 21 years of age. In that time, she credits county home economist Francis Dannoy with stimulating her interest in projects such as advanced sewing and foods judging. She also began dating fellow 4-H'er and dairy farmer Rodman Thompson.

Rod continued on as a leader when he passed the membership age, and Jane remained in 4-H until she and Rod married, working with his family's dairy operation. In May, 1959, Jane and Rod moved to the East Berlin farm they had purchased to begin dairying on their own. Rodman, Jr., was seven and daughter Shirley was four. Roy, their youngest, was born in 1963.

Soon after their move to York County, the Thompsons became acquainted with Jonas Gruver and Helen and Harris Horn, area farmers who were active with the local Thomasville 4-H Club. Though the club offered livestock projects, their were none for home economics. In 1960, Jane and Helen Horn offered Thomasville 4-H Club's first-ever home-ec project.

The Thompson children naturally all became members as they came of age, pursuing a myriad of porjects, from gardening to sewing to capons.

"But dairy was their favorite, always their first choice," Jane notes.

By the mid-1970s, York County's 4-H dairy membership had swelled to a size that enabled the formation of three separate clubs. Jane became a leader of the Central group, a club with membership ranging from about 12 to 18, reaching 22 at its peak, with 10 meetings each year.

"Each child was different," relates this logn-time leader, searching her wealth of memories from the club's diverse members and activities. "We tried to stress educational programs, to teach about the calves and about milk production. Outside speakers were popular, and meetings where members worked with their hands, like learning to make rope halters. Parents often came and stayed with their children and we learned together."

In recent years, Jane has seen increasing amounts of other activities compete with time youngsters have for 4-H Club work. churches, schools and other community organizations offer a diversity of youth programs.

"I'm glad they lowered the 4-H beginning age limit to seven," says Jane of York County's move to allow club membership at a younger age. "I think it will work, and I could forsee dropping it even to age six. Kids at that age are inquisitive, they're enthusiastic, they're interested. As they get older, they lose interest and become involved in so many other things."

"4-H is an educational and social opportunity. It shows kids that there's no need for drugs in their lives; they can fill their lives with more positive things. Being in 4-H gave our children more opportunities to travel than they would have had otherwise, to take part in exchanges, attend camp, meet people from other parts of the state and country."

After 30 years of her leadership role, of program planning and project advising, roundups, fitting days, field trips and leader paperwork, Jane Thompson felt the time was right for her to retire from an active role in 4-H

"I felt I had no more ideas and it was time to let someone else take over with a fresh set of ideas. It was just time to step back. To her 4-H members, Jane sent out a letter telling them of her retirement early this year. Every word, she confesses, had a tear on it.

Jane will continue to help Rod and their family with the diary operation, and is enjoying having a little more time for their two granddaughters and five grandsons. Already, several of them are in 4-H, showing dairy heifers among their chosen projects.

Many of the 4-H'ers Jane's helped to lead over the past 30 years have not forgotten her. On occasion, a former 4-H member will stop by to keep in touch with quick visit. And that, she says, is a real thrill and a continuing pleasure from her three decades of 4-H leadership.

PSU Fans Hear Top 10 Reasons For Drinking Milk

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The days are cooling off, children have returned to their classrooms and amidst the quiet of the changing leaves a tradition rages on across the state. Each Saturday thousands of devout Penn State Nittany Lion Football fans turn their attention and lend an ear to the center of the state, to Joe Paterno country.

These avid fans whether at Beaver Stadium or in their own backyard cheer religiously for the home team. This year amidst the racket of the fans, the Penn State Sports Network will clamor out more milk commercials. These radio commercials remind fans about the "Top Ten Reasons, Why Milk is the Beverage of Choice" not only in Pennsylvania but for the Nittany Lion training table as well.

These milk promotion spots are part of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program's support and participation in the Penn State Sports Program. There are three 60 second spots, used in rotation for the weekly game broadcasts. The Penn State Sports Network is carried by 74 AM and FM stations across Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, West Virginia and Ohio.

The radio spots are featured after the ever-popular David Letterman's Late Night Show, comic feature "The Top Ten." These humorous milk messages remind Pennsylvania consumers that milk offers a variety of slections, has nutritional appeal and can easily be consumed through a crazy-straw. In one particular spot the announcer touts that milk is consumed "by the pailful in Lancaster County."

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has been an advertising sponsor and supporter of collegiate athletics since its inception. Another part of the advertising package is to host the "Pennsylvania Finest Tailgate" at the Homecoming game on October 6. The PDPP acts as the coordinator and facilitator of this huge Pennsylvania grown and processed foods feast.

Later in the season, on November 10, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will host the 4th Annual Dairy Gridiron Classic. At stake will be a $1,000 academic scholarship which is awarded to the College of Agriculture of the winning school. The Dairy Gridiron Classic football game will be played between Penn State and the University of Maryland for the third consecutive year.

Let there be "lite"! According to the American Dairy Association, current "lite" offerings in the supermarket are reduced in fat by 20 percent to 30 percent. Cheeses naturally low in fat include 1 percent fat cottage cheese, Feta and low-moisture, part-skim Mozzarella. Several manufacturers also produce low-fat natural cheeses, which as a general rule have 5 or fewer grams of fat per ounce.

Somerset Family Moves To Panama Farm

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BOYNTON (Somerset Co.) — On a hunch it's probably safe to suppose that few U.S. farmers would opt to migrate lock, stock barrel, and family to the Central American country of Panama for any good reason.

That's exactly what Boynton dairy farmer Jacob Tice, his wife, and three children have just done, following a yen of Jake's that began some 13 years ago.

An American farmer, Mr. Petersen, has two milking centers in Panama. Tice will help him to build a third, and lease from him. In time, Tice hopes to have 100 head of Holstein cattle in his dairy. He said his lease will last for three years.

Tice knew farming all his life. He attended Penn State University where he majored in sociology. Following that, he spent three years in Honduras working in administration. During those years he became fluent in the Spanish language.

Lasting from that experience was the deep impression that dairy farmers were needed in that region of the world. Tice returned to the states where he continued to think about taking his agricultural experience to Central America someday.

He married a registered nurse, Marlene Yoder, who shared his cultural bent. They had three children. Salome is now 9, Jonathan is 6, and Joseph is 4.

Marlene was raised on a farm in western Maryland. She had spent a year in Washington, D.C., working as a volunteer at the International Guesthouse prior to their marriage. Here she met with cultures from all over the globe because the International Guesthouse was created to provide low-cost lodging for persons from other nations and to expose them to Christianity in a homey, hospitable atmosphere.

On the Boynton farm, there was a continual struggle to make it a profitable livelihood. The idea of moving south never abated. Finally, in 1987 Jake and Marlene went to Panama for a visit. From that time, planning to move was serious. They put the farm on the sale market.

Panama is a country crying for dairy farmers because it imports two-thirds of its dairy products. Yet, to get a start in the country was almost impossible if you weren't already a landowner. One needed to own land to secure a loan.

Tice weighed the pros and cons of moving to Panama. "I don't feel called to live a life of poverty in the states," he said. "The price for milk in Panama is 33 percent higher than in the states. The capital outlay is less in Panama because the cows eat grass all year. Labor is cheap." On the other hand, Tice admitted, "The cows have lower production than here in the states where the problem is often overproduction.

"Why not struggle where struggle is meaningful," he said. "Is milking cows in Boynton making use of the Spanish I knocked myself out for three years to become fluent in?"

So they waited for a buyer for their farm. Marlene continued her nursing profession by working in a small city hospital. Months went by. Unexpectedly, the volatile Panamanian government changed leadership, and their farm had a serious buyer within a month of each other last spring. Tice says it seemed like everything started to fall into place. Besides that, he was suddenly reaping higher profits from his milk production, which was money to help finance their move to Panama. They felt even more strongly that they were doing the right thing.

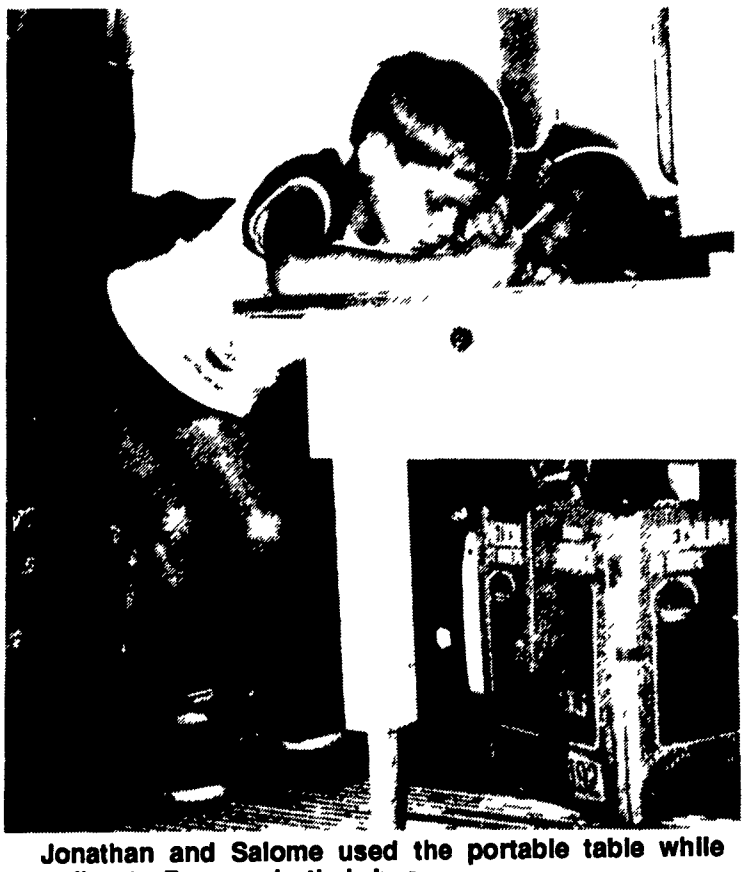
To the community at large, Tice's scheme seemed preposterous. Why would a sane man drag his family through the wilds of Mexico and other countries where hostilities abounded, especially in a bus that looked like it might refuse to go at any minute? Jake said he knows the safety of his family lays with a higher power. He felt God was asking him to move and cited examples from the Bible of others, who centuries before, had taken similar steps which separated them from the majority.

As for living within another culture, Jake says when those people hear about the crimes committed in the United States, they think that the U.S. is the most dangerous country in which to live.

Tice bought a Cumberland city bus for the 4,500-mile trip. They allowed three weeks for the journey in order to stop at the homes of friends along the route to Panama.

Ultimately, Tice turned the bus into a motorhome by installing interior bunk beds for the children with storage space beneath. In went the 30-inch kitchen range

(Turn to Page B17)



Jonathan and Salome used the portable table while traveling to Panama in their bus.

PA Dairy Princess

Somerset Karen Leigh Jenkins said: "I would buy them the world, and add the sky and sun."

Blair Kristen Metzker said, "I really do believe that the things that manner the most are the things that are done from the heart. The things that I give would be very simple: to be the best person that I can be and to try to be success in all that I do and always let them know that who I am and what I am is a very direct result of my parentage."

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Jacy Clugston said, "I believe that I do have the ways and means to thank them. I thank them for raising her in a Christian family. I feel that the best way I could thank my parents is to rear my children like they reared me in a Christian home."

Bucks County Mary Beth Landis answered, teary eyed but composed, "My parents have done a lot for me. When I was younger, I did not always see that but now that I am older I do. The biggest thing that I could do for them is to give my life to serve the Lord in whatever that might be for me."

Crawford County Dana Ann Slusser: "I would try to be an example of what they've taught me to be. I'd try to live a good life in work, be a Christian, honor God, and be good to people like they have, for they've taught me so much. I'd share what they have taught me so that other people could see what've they've taught me. They're good parents."

Sullivan County Sally Reibson said: "I'd really give them everything, service, time everything. My parents brought me into the world and give me everything I need. In return, I'd tell them I love them every day as I do."

The new princess and her alternates also placed first for outstanding presentations. In the presentation, Kristin, dressed in a black and white polka dot blouse and black skirt challenged the audience with a fact-packed speech on Dairy: It's Diet and Delicious.

Sally Reibson, dressed in black suit and hat, carried a cane and did a silent comedy imitating Charlie Chaplin choosing between real dairy products and imitation.

Mary Beth Landis portrayed Snow White and the seven dwarfs who learned to change their lives by using dairy products.

Honorable mentions for outstanding presentations went to Suzanne Moyer, Berks County; Jacy Clugston, Lancaster County; and Julie Wible, Butler County.

Scrapbook judges Christine Meissner, communications director of ADA, and Dieter Kreig, Farmshine editor, chose the following as top winners in the scrapbook competition: Nicole Childers, Bedford County; Suzanne Moyer, Berks County; Kristin Metzker, Blair County; Mary Beth Landis, Bucks County, Dana Slusser, Crawford County; and Heidi Minner, Mercer County.

Jan Harding, PDPPS program director, presented a silver bowl in a "Real seal bag" to the outgoing princess. She said that Anne, her "sixth daughter", has done a tremendous job.

"Not only has she served as our State Princess with it's many responsibilities but also won the Tina Shultz Award, for outstanding promotion on the county level.

The Tina Shultz Award is given annually in memory of the 1985-86 Huntingdon County Dairy Princess who did an outstanding job of promoting the dairy industry while fighting a losing battle with cancer.

Runner-up awards for the Tina Shultz Award went to Kynel Bombgardner of Lebanon County and Tanya Martin of McKean County.

The Miss Congeniality award that is selected by the contestants was given to Linda Fisher of Mifflin County.

After a farewell speech by the 1989-1990 PA Dairy Princess, the new princess and her alternates were named.

After accepting the crown, banner, and bouquet, Kristin Metzker said, "I knew the best girl would win but I didn't know it would be me. It is a dream come true to serve each and everyone of you."

For 15 of the 17 years that Kristin has lived, she's been tagging along with her mother, Debbie, the dairy princess promotion coordinator in Blair County. Those years sparked a desire to some day wear the crown not only for her county but someday the state.

"I knew she'd win," her mother said after the coronation. "I know her abilities and I hoped everyone else would recognize them."

Kristin's mother added, "After 15 years of being chairperson in my county, it's nice for me to get something out of it."

Linda Fisher, Miss Congeniality.

Judges for the pageant reported it was a tough competition to judge. From left: Dr. Ron Buffington, Susan Reynolds, Marcia Remsberg, and Jim Cavanaugh.

During Anne Marie Mitchell's reign as the state dairy princess, she and Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff became like family. "I'll take her home to be a daughter any day," said Sec. Wolff who stands with Anne, left, and Angela Spickler, the former state alternate princess.

Panama Farm

with bottled gas, the ice box and chest of drawers, the double-duty sofa bed. Jake built a low portable table with removable short legs. Curtains were hung at the windows and interior locks installed. Two spare tires were padlocked to the outside rear end. Marlene's mother had the insight to purchase a roll of screening for the windows. The automotive mechanic had been thorough in overhauling the vehicle.

In the yard, the kids raced around as final goodbyes were exchanged.

"When are we going to Panama?" they yelled. The exact hour wasn't known. There were too many final details to reckon with.

Jake waited for a crucial piece of equipment to arrive from the shipper. It, too, would travel by bus. Sure enough, when it came, hours before departure, there was a glitch. If the trip were a jaunt into Pittsburgh to watch the Pirates play baseball, the problem would not be a big deal. Finally, the mis-shipment was worked out.

Jake said their new housing will be a step down. Marlene has all the vials of serum for their final innoculations to complete the immunizations begun here in the states against various dieseases. She will administer them to the family members at the appropriate intervals according to the instructions of her home physician.

Education for the children will be another challenge. Marlene is optimistic and joyful about being a full-time mother once more. She says she will teach them English lessons and learn Spanish with them.

Boquete, Panama, where they will live has an enviable, near-perfect, climate year round. The 75-degree daytime temperature merely dips to 65 degrees at night. On the west shore of the curving slice of the country is the Pacific Ocean, while to the east is the Caribbean Sea. Settled into their new home, the Tices will be almost midway between the two bodies of water.

Despite the extra weight and expense, Marlene refused to leave anything behind that could be given to the Panamanian children. So she took along clothes they didn't need and toys they didn't want, to be shared with the disadvantaged youngsters there.

Their household belongings and milking equipment, leaving Baltimore Harbor by ship, were sent down the Panama Canal. Tice had to be at the dock on September 2 to claim the 150 cartons.

Though self-supporting, the Tices intend to be active as missionaries by getting involved with the Mennonite-Brethren Church team there. They will help to plant churches and work with the native Choco' Indians.

After calling home every other day or so while en route with the news advisory regarding their progress, the Tices arrived safely at their destination by the end of August.

Jake casts a disappointed look over the final shipment of equipment he wants to haul along to Panama as he notes a glitch. "It's not all here," he says.

Consumers are shifting from the purchase of whole chicken to more cut-up broilers and parts, according to the National Broiler Council. Only about 30 percent of broilers in retail grocery stores are now sold as "whole chickens". In 1988, less than 60 percent of chicken was purchased cut-up or in parts. This compares to almost 70 percent in 1990.

York 4-H Sheep Show Selects Finest

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Sheep entries are on the increase at the York Fair, with record 4-H entries part of the 600-plus woolies taking part in this year's competition.

As York County's 4-H sheep and lamb club marked its 40-year anniversary, most of the 74 members turned out to compete for coveted York Fair top honors.

The breeding sheep show results spread honors and rosettes among numerous 4-H families, some long-time show veterans and other newcomers to the tanbark trail.

Julie Kern, York, bested the Dorset classes, taking champion titles in both the ewe and ram categories. In both reserve places was Dave Myers, Wellsville.

Tabitha Ebersole, York, exhibited the champion Hampshire ram, over the reserve of Matt Trostle, Red Lion. Champion Hampshire ewe was the entry of Mike Klinedinst, Stewartstown, with Matt Trostle in the reserve place. In the Shropshire classes, Karen Keyser, York, exhibited the champion and reserve ewes.

Matt Trostle, Red Lion, swept the Southdown classes, taking champion and reserve for both ewe and ram categories. Matt Miller, Felton, exhibited the champion and reserve ram in the Suffolk division, with Julie Kern, York, winning both top ewe honors.

Champion and reserve awards for both rams and ewes were claimed by 4-H'er Meghan Hayes, Red Lion. Emily Bankert, Red Lion, topped her brother Drew Bankert for champion and reserve ram ribbons in the Natural sheep division. champion ewe was exhibited by Janelle Mancusco, Felton, and reserve ewe by Emily Bankert.

Ehrlich gets the jump on fleas.

Fleas feed only on blood Prior to biting humans, they may have fed on skunks rats or deer Fleas don t care

Adult fleas can go two years without a meal but prefer to eat often They usually bite humans on the legs but will jump onto beds and chairs if given a chance This can be more than just irritating Fleas are among the most notorious disease carriers in the world

Allowed to roam your home one female flea will lay about 450 eggs Get the jump on fleas before they jump on you Call Ehrlich for a free inspection no obligation

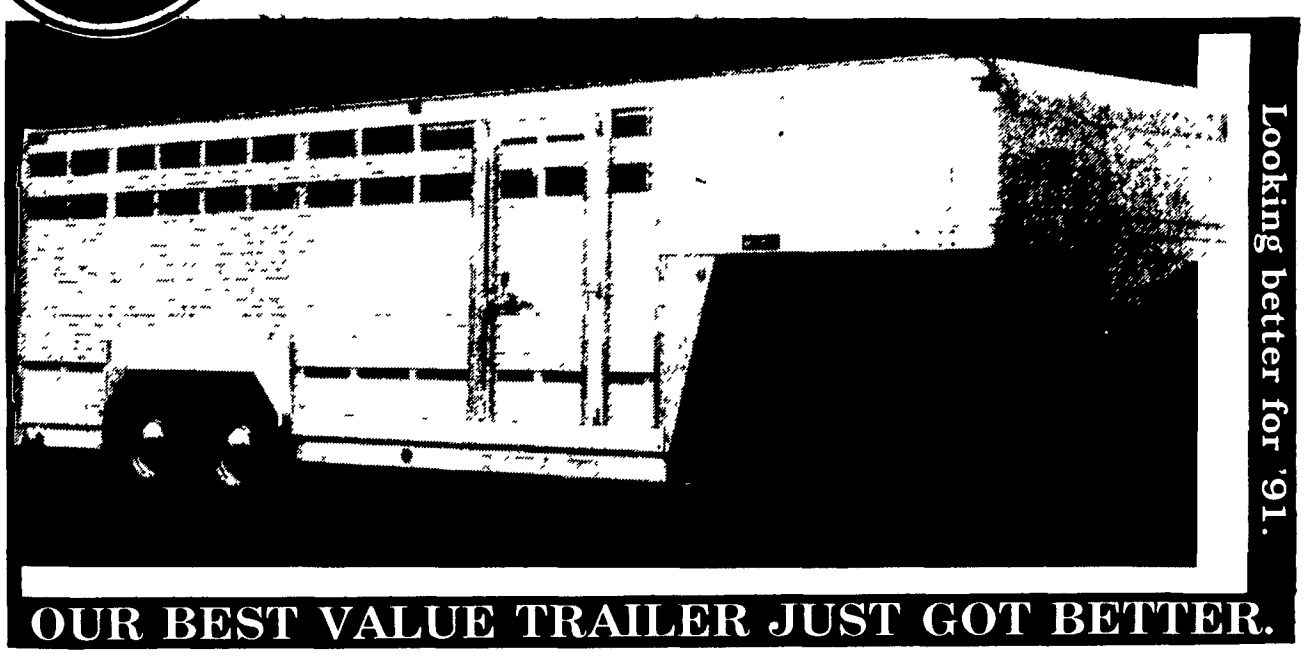
WRANGLER



OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

- LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

READ WHAT DAIRYMEN HAVE TO SAY ABOUT Master Mix ProTek DAIRY FEED

Forage Program

* 35 lbs. Corn Silage
* 15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

* Sensenig's Custom Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek®
* Topdress Testmaker 18 Hi Peak™

"The first two years I fed Master Mix ProTek, I gradually increased my production. This last year I switched my topdress from Testmaker 18 High Fat to Testmaker 18 Hi Peak and I saw the most increase. I also have better breeding by feeding the Hi Peak and the body condition on my cows is a lot better than it was this time last year.

"In my last year, my herd average went from 18,300 to 20,200 with my butterfat staying the same and my pounds of fat increasing. I started to feed Hi Peak in mid January and the cows were averaging 60 lbs. of milk with a 3.8 test. By mid February the cows were averaging 70 lbs. of milk with a 3.7 test. They continued to hold that production for four months until I turned them out on pasture when they dropped to averaging 67.5 lbs. of milk with a 3.6 test. I can't complain about the service at Sensenig's; in fact they have super service!"

Forage Program

* 30-35 lbs. Corn Silage
* 14-15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

* Sensenig's Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek® concentrate
* Topdress Testmaker 18 HF

"With the lower quality hay forages I had last year, I decided to try a suggestion I heard at Sensenig's Dairy meeting. I fed heavier on the Testmaker 18 HF (about 6 pounds more) and I pulled back on my flaked dairy at the same time and my cows picked up right away. They really just took off! In April, I had 7 cows with 105 lb. average and they all held their backfat and most were bred back at the end of July.

"The cows' have good appetites and they clean up their feed. I have nothing to complain about with my butterfat tests. My butterfat has been running consistant the last couple of years while my production is increasing. From two years ago when I started with Sensenig's Feed Mill, I'm up a good 1500 pounds on my herd average."

Forage Program

* 15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

* Sensenig's Custom Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek®
* Topdress Testmaker 18 Hi Peak™

"A year ago, my production was very good; however, I struggled with maintaining backfat on my highest producing cows. This year I switched from Testmaker 18 HF to Testmaker 18 Hi Peak. The Hi Peak pellets are holding the backfat on my cows a lot better than a year ago. My production on the Hi Peak is also very good. I averaged over 70 lbs. for 3 months and my butterfat stayed the same. My breeding is good, too, with my higher production.

"I can't complain about appetites. I think they eat really good. I also feed grain four times a day. Since using Hi Peak, I do not have to overfeed grain in late lactation like a year ago. I think I'll just stick to feeding Hi Peak."

A Sincere THANK YOU To The Above Dairymen For Their Time And Effort.

MEETS THE CHALLENGE

Scout Fields Now To Determine Corn Maturity

DEKALB, Ill. — Delayed planting and unusually cool growing conditions this year slowed the growth of the 1990 corn crop. That has many growers concerned about the possibility of frost-damaged corn.

Consequently, growers should be scouting their fields and planning harvest schedules to avoid potential loss due to frost damage, said Craig Strosnider, regional agronomist for DeKalb Plant Genetics.

"The degree of frost damage lies in the stage of crop development when the frost hits," he said. "Corn that has reached physiological maturity is considered safe, but corn that is less advanced will suffer some damage."

Kernels of corn hit by frost will be soft, lightweight, slow drying, and often hard to shell due to soft, spongy cobs. Damaged plants also lack stalk strength and are more susceptible to stalk and root rot organisms, he added.

If frost does damage corn during the milk or dough stage, farmers have an option. Strosnider says they can make green chop or whole-plant silage.

"If the corn is in the dent stage and hit by frost, it can be harvested after a long field drying period, but test weights will likely be below normal," he said.

Strosnider noted that a light frost sometimes kills only the upper leaves or plants in the lowest parts of the field so yield losses will be minimal.

Angus Cross Solanco Champ

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — It's obvvious that you don't need a purebred to secure a championship, as 14-year-old Brad Linton, Kirkwood, proved last week at the Solanco Fair beef show.

It was Brad's 1,070-pound Angus/Polled Hereford/Chianina/Maine-Anjou cross that clinched the supreme title at the show. A Solanco 4-H member, Brad picked up the same award for the steer, "Oscar," that he won at the Lancaster County 4-H Red Rose Beef Club Showmanship contest last month. He also won senior showmanship honors at the Solanco contest.

Judge Ken Winebark, a Lebanon County Extension agent, was impressed with the champion steer.

"This is an extremely heavy muscled steer," said Winebark. "When you analyze it from the top down through his rump and through his shoulder, he is wide in terms of thickness. It's a real meaty steer."

Winebark said judging depends on where "you want to place your emphasis." Exhibitors must keep in mind, according to the judge, the product and how to maintain high standards of quality.

The reserve champion, exhibited by Denny Mellott, 17, of Peach Bottom, was a "real thick, meaty calf with a lot of value and capacity," said Winebark.

"For a good steer, depending on where you want to put your emphasis, I elected this evening to go with steers that have a little more value, a little more muscle thickness," he said.

Ferguson and Hassler bought the champion steer for $6.05 per pound, a record for the show. for a grand total of $6,473.50. K&S, Inc. purchased the reserve for $1.55 per pound.

Winebark emphasized the importance of the exhibitors to know and understand the market and what it expects from steer farms. He questioned the exhibitors during the showmanship contest on their knowledge of steers and what the industry demands.

The winner of the senior showmanship contest was Brad Linton, who "kept his head up, was alert, and provided more eye contact," said the judge. "He kept his eye on me more."

The junior champion, Denny Mellott, "keeps the head up on the animal, he's got very good control on him, he's the most alert of any of the individuals and he's quick to make the moves that I had him make," said Winebark.

Overall, there were 12 steers with the same number of exhibitors in the show. Following is a list of show placings.

Penn State Offers Tax Workshops

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Tax preparers can get helpful information about filing 1990 tax returns at Penn State's annual income tax workshops, to be conducted in various locations in Pennsylvania during October.

Topics covered at the workshop will include an update on tax law, reducing taxes through business deductions, managing a tax practice, selling a personal residence, and tax filing rules for partnerships.

Workshop instructors will include Penn State faculty and tax accountants in private practice. The workshop offers 12 continuing professional education (CPE) credits for those who need them to maintain their professional accreditation.

The income tax preparation workshop will be offered at the following locations:

- Allentown, Oct. 1 and 2
- Hazleton, Oct. 3 and 4
- Lancaster, Oct. 8 and 9
- Souderton, Oct. 10 and 11
- Carlisle, Oct. 15 and 16
- Bedford, Oct. 17 and 18
- Meadville, Oct. 22 and 23
- Williamsport, Oct. 24 and 25

Preregistration for the program is recommended. The registration fee of $110 includes meals, refreshments, and workshop reference materials.

Registration forms and more detailed information are available from any Penn State Cooperative Extension office, or from the workshop coordinator at (814) 863-3580.

Trustees Approve Ag Plans

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)— The Penn State Board of Trustees recently approved the final plans for several agricultural facilities to complement the agricultural science and industries building now under construction.

The projects include a new poultry complex, a dairy complex, and two greenhouses.

The poultry complex will be located north of the existing Headhouse No. 4 and will replace the existing poultry facilities next to the outdoor swimming pool.

The 50,725-square-foot complex will include a breeder house, a cage layer house, a pullet grow-out house, a processing building, a research building, and a meat bird house.

The dairy complex, to be located with the existing dairy facilities off Park Avenue, will total 55,874 square feet. it will include a heifer barn, a feed center, tie stall and free stall housing, a milking center, a hay bedding storage building, and renovation of the existing Unit D into an intensive research facility.

The greenhouse complex will include 19,043 square feet of new construction featuring two greenhouses connected to the south side of the agricultural science and industries building.

Researchers Produce Fertile Corn Inbreds

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Scientists at CIBA-GEIGY have developed fertile, genetically transformed plants in commercially valuable inbred corn lines.

This development — the direct genetic transformation of elite breeding lines of corn — will greatly reduce the time required to bring genetically transformed hybrid seed to market. It will also impact hybrid traits such as improved disease resistance.

Scientists introduced two "marker" genes into cells of three CIBA-GEIGY elite corn breeding lines. When plants were grown from the cells and bred with non-transformed plants, the marker genes were passed to the new generation.

The genes were introduced into the corn cells using a technique called microprojectile bombardment. Tiny metal beads coated with selected genetic material are shot into plant tissue. The new genes are then integrated into the plant's genetic structure, where they produce the desired end result such as improved resistance to certain corn diseases.

"This breakthrough," said Dr. Bruce Hunter, vice president of Research, "advances CIBA-GEIGY to a leading position in the development and marketing of genetically-transformed seeds.

"Biotechnology provides new tools and techniques that greatly expand our ability to address the traditional challenges of crop improvement.

"There are, for example, no genes in corn that provide resistance to rootworm. As a result, breeders have made little, if any, progress in combating this major pest.

"Genetic resistance to such problems must come, therefore, from outside the corn gene pool. Biotechnology enables us to accomplish just that."

CIBA-GEIGY may seek approvals from the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture to field test the transformed corn next year. Lengthy testing and breeding is required to ensure optimal field performance.

Senior champion showman honors for the Solanco Fair beef show went to Brad Linton, front, for his Angus cross. Reserve championship honors went to Ryan Rohrer, for his Angus/Chianina cross.

Scientists Achieve Stable Corn Transformation

DES MOINES, Iowa — Scientists at Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. have achieved stable genetic transformation of corn, which opens the door for Pioneer to insert genes directly into the plants to give them desirable traits not available through traditional plant breeding methods.

"Pioneer scientists placed a gene directly into corn cells, then generated a plant from those cells, produced seed, and found the gene in the next generation of corn plants," said Dr. John Howard, Pioneer director of biotechnology.

The ability to transform plants will enable Pioneer, the world's largest plant genetics company, to introduce new traits into corn that have been impossible to produce through traditional plant breeding techniques, Howard said.

"We now are starting to insert genes we hope will make plants resistant to disease, insects, and other pests," he said. "We also will be able to provide end users such as food and animal feed companies with corn hybrids that have special traits important to them — modified proteins, oils, or starches — through the company's specialty plant products division."

He said, "This important first step of stable transformation puts us in a position to begin the development of new corn seed products. But many years of refinement, breeding, and testing of these products in greenhouses and research fields remain before they will be meet the rigorous standards Pioneer demands of its hybrids." The transformed hybrid is not a hybrid currently sold by Pioneer, but is suitable for field testing, Howard said.

Application For Field Test Planned

Pioneer work on transformation has been conducted for several years at the company's research center at Johnston, Iowa, just northwest of Des Moines. The transformed hybrid plants are now in a greenhouse in Johnston.

"Within the next few months, application will be made to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for permission to conduct field testing next spring," said Dr. Rod Townsend, Pioneer director of regulatory affairs.

The field test will probably be conducted on the Johnston research acreage, he said.

Pioneer is now in the second year of field testing a genetically engineered variety of alfalfa at the Johnston facility. Those tests involve plants transformed by addition of a gene that makes them resistant to alfalfa mosaic virus.

"The gene involved in the corn transformation program confers resistance to a herbicide called Glean," Townsend said. "In our transformation research, the gene was not used for its commercial value but rather as a 'marker gene.' We currently have no plans to develop a product that would be resistant to Glean." Marker genes are easy to trace in plants and to follow in field tests, he said.

Particle Gun Technology Used

Pioneer achieved corn transformation using "particle gun" technology, in which the charge from an ordinary .22-caliber blank cartridge is used to "shoot" tiny projectiles coated with the marker genes into cells. The genes combine, or integrate, with others already in the cells of the plant. These transformed cells then are grown into fully-developed plants that express the new traits of the marker genes.

"As Pioneer continues to refine its transformation technology, genes will be used that give crops the characteristics farmers need to be more efficient and profitable," Howard said.

"Pioneer also will be using various techniques of molecular biology to develop genetic transformation of such key crops as soybeans, sunflower, canola and alfalfa," he said. "In some instances, we may work in collaboration with other researchers, universities and companies who have identified important genes the world's farmers need."

Board Re-Elects Officers

DES MOINES, Iowa — The National Pork Board re-elected both its president and vice president to one year terms during its August business meeting in Madison, WI.

Hilman Schroeder, a Sauk City, WI, producer, was re-elected to his second term as the organization's president. Schroeder has been a National Pork Board member since the group's conception in 1986, and served as its first vice president. He operates a 170-sow seedstock operation which markets 3,000 hogs annually.

"In the coming year, the National Pork Board will continue to strive to allocate producer checkoff dollars in the most efficient and effective manner possible," said Schroeder. "We have developed a good working relationship with our contractors, including the National Pork Producers Council and the National Live Stock and Meat Board. I'd like to see those relationships continue and be strengthened."

Harold Trask, a Renwich, IA, producer, was re-elected to his second term as National Pork Board vice president. Trask is also an original National Pork Board member with extensive experience on the board's budget committee. He operates a 220-sow farrow-to-finish operation and markets 4,400 hogs a year.

GOOD GEHL MOWER CONDITIONERS

Gehl keeps it simple. Gehl products have been responsive to farmers needs for over 130 years. And in that time we've gained a reputation as a leader—introducing innovative products that stress performance and reliability.

Gehl's mower conditioner line continues that tradition. Uncomplicated sickle and conditioner roll drive systems deliver extra cutting force and thorough conditioning with fewer moving parts.

Design simplicity translates into less downtime. That means your Gehl equipment will operate at its maximum cost effectiveness well into the future.

With Gehl mower conditioners you get:

- High speed cutting. Up to 1640 strokes per minute. You'll get through tough cutting conditions with ease.

- Outstanding conditioning. Ultra fast drying times—a result of intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs that provide more working edges than continuous ribbed rolls.
- Three point flotation support. Lateral and vertical flotation for clean cutting in uneven fields and fast reaction for cutterbar protection from field obstructions.
- Easy serviceability. Simple design, easy adjustments, lower maintenance and less wear.

Gehl mower conditioners are available in 7' and 9 foot conventional models or 12' and 14 foot swing frame units.

Pick the Gehl mower conditioner that fits your operation. We're sure you'll agree that the best ideas are usually the simplest—like Gehl mower conditioners.

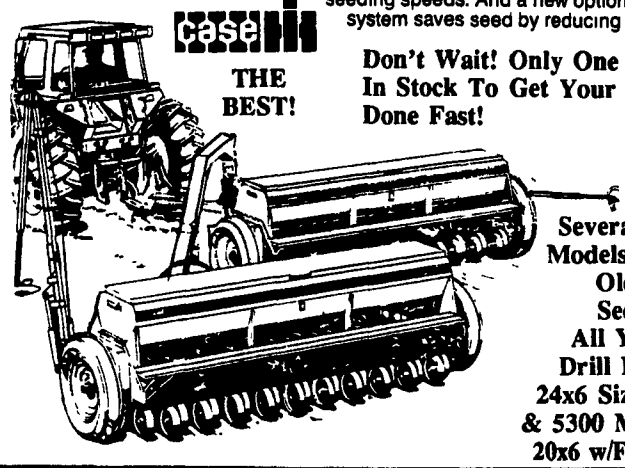
Case IH

Double up to finish in half the time!

Case International 5100 Drill with Hydraulic Two-Drill Hitch

The field-proven 5100 Drill, unequalled for precise seeding, with hydraulic two-drill attachment, lets you double your capacity. Save valuable time and fuel. Hydraulics let you go from transport to working position and back without leaving your tractor seat. The 5100 Drill features feed cups with fluted rolls, large throat clearance, and exclusive tapered metering edge. Big-capacity plain or combination hoppers. Seed delivery is to the front of the openers allowing for more accurate seed placement and permits faster seeding speeds. And a new optional hydraulic marker system saves seed by reducing overlaps and skips.



THE BEST!

LESS FUEL PER ACRE... WITH A CASE IH xpe AXIAL FLOW COMBINE

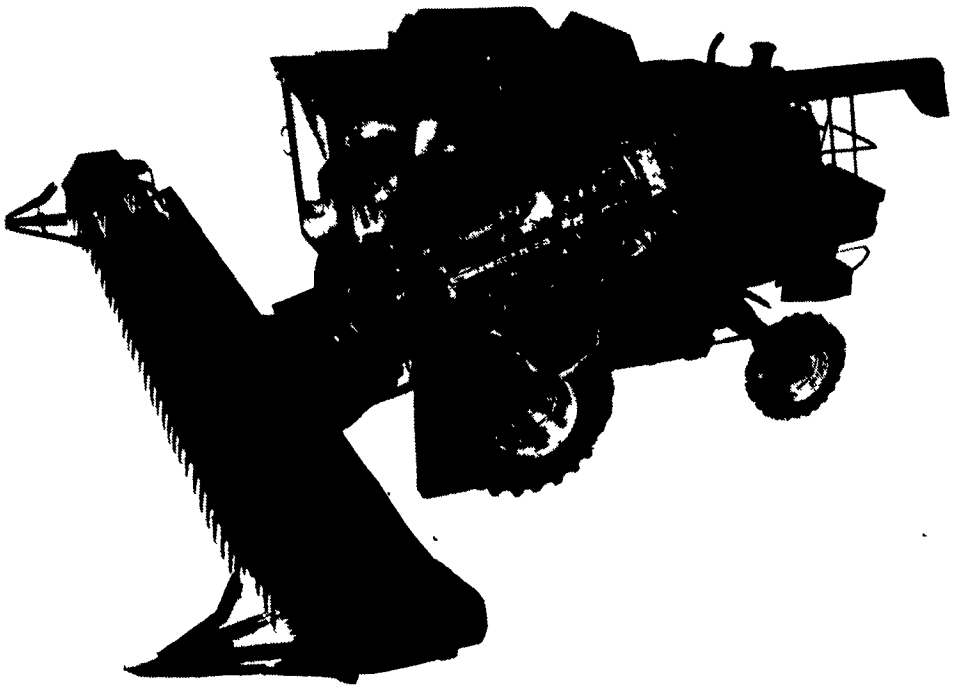
For Over 10 Years the Words AXIAL FLOW have meant two things: BETTER GRAIN & MORE OF IT. But now, you can add something else to that list: EXTRA POWER and ECONOMY



AXIAL FLOW combines are now powered by the CASE IH NCE engines. These all new "state of the art" engines are designed with more torque reserve and even better fuel efficiency. And that spells more acres and more bushels of grain from every gallon of fuel.

There is a model to match your needs...	MODEL	ENGINE
	1640	160 HP, 359 cu. in.
	1660	190 HP, 505 cu. in.
	1680	235 HP, 505 cu. in.

MAKE YOUR NEXT COMBINE A CASE IH axial flow COMBINE FROM THE EAST'S LARGEST axial flow COMBINE DEALER...

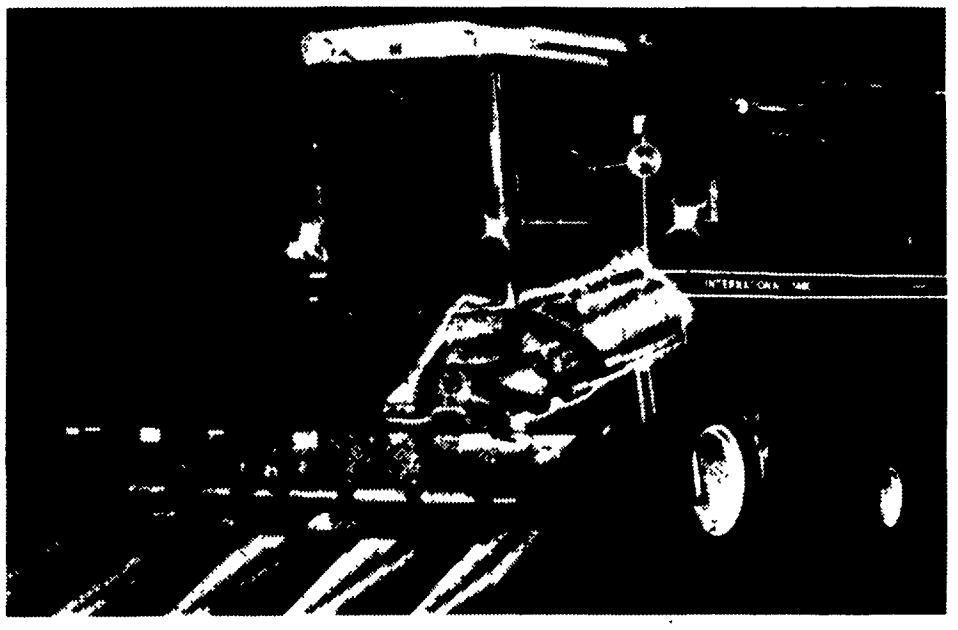
YOU DON'T NEED TO BE A MATHEMATICIAN TO LEARN



THE 3 LAWS

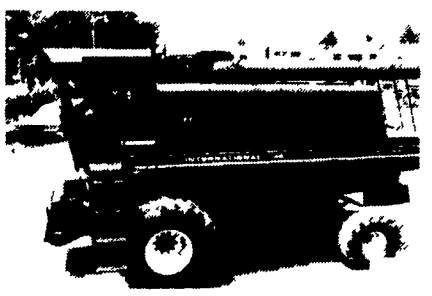
OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES.

YOU ONLY NEED TO TRY ONE.

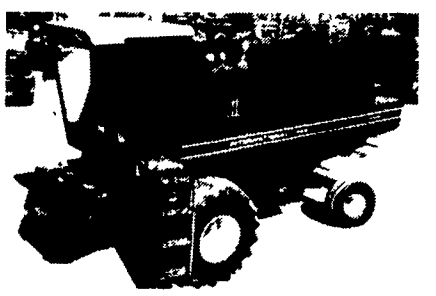
1st LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

SEVEN (7) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO (≠) WORN OUT

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.



IH 1460, 3612 Hrs., Diesel w/Turbo, Hydro, 28Lx26 Tires, Field Ready, 1980 (U4801)

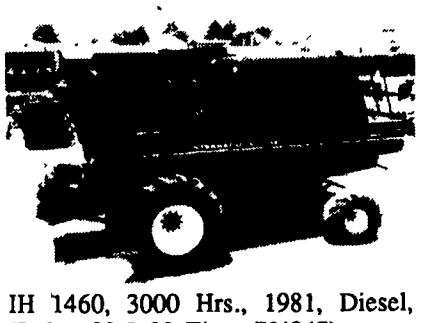


IH 1440, 2760 Hrs., 28Lx26, 11.00x16 Tires, Auto Header Control, AC/Htr (U4817)

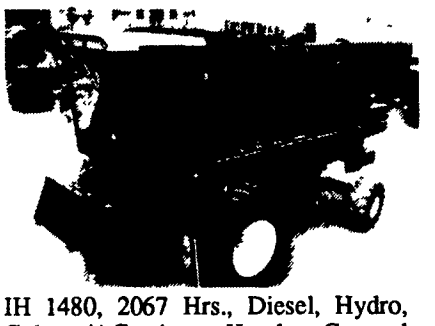
2nd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

3,000 HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE

3,000 hours on a conventional combine usually means too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 3,000 hours reconditioned by Hoober's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.



IH 1460, 3000 Hrs., 1981, Diesel, Hydro, 30.5x32 Tires (U4847)



IH 1480, 2067 Hrs., Diesel, Hydro, Cab w/AC, Auto Header Control (U5082)

3rd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

- ★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
- ★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
- ★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit
Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.
Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00.
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets.
NEW price on ramps & carries - $200.00

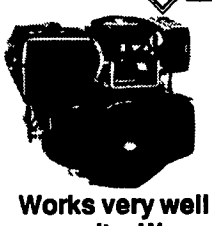
Is Your Corn Picker Engine In Shape To Handle This Year's Heavy Crop?



This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

Works very well to run corn pickers, crimpers and mower crimper units. We can mount your Wisc. clutch reduction for $1495 or sell the engine with used Wisc. reduction for $1995. Price includes picking up your clutch and delivery of completed unit for you. (Lancaster County Only)

We Only Have A Limited Amount Of These Engines Available w/Reduction

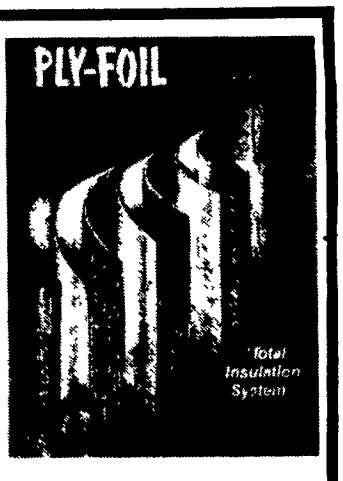
PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.



PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

LABOR

The other day I told my students in our swine production class that I could find them all a job in the swine industry within a week. We can speculate as to why it's true, but clearly we have more positions than people to fill them.

Nature of swine production labor

Most farm owners would agree that finding good people and keeping them is a significant problem. If the lack of interest among students at Penn State is any indication, the situation is worse for the swine industry.

Far more students are interested in dairy cattle, beef cattle, and horses than they are in pigs. There are at least four potential employers for each student who expresses an interest in the swine industry.

What qualifications are needed? An interest in swine production, an ambitious attitude, and an ability to get along with people. Locate a potential employee with those three qualities and most employers would be more than happy to provide the necessary training in swine management skills.

Compensation

Salary. Most assistant herdsman or assistant managers on swine enterprises in this state probably earn base salaries between $16,000 and $20,000. Managers will likely average $5,000 above those levels.

In addition, many farms provide housing or at least a housing allowance. The type of housing offered is important to a prospective employee, especially when the needs of a spouse or family are considered.

For example, if two similar jobs are available — one that offers a modest house and the other a trailer — the employee will usually opt for the job with the house.

Whatever type of housing is provided, it's nontaxable in most cases. So the employee who receives a base salary and a housing allowance will most likely be taxed at higher rate than the employee who has the same salary and a house provided.

Incentive programs. Incentives are common on most swine enterprises. This is a salary bonus for work performed above average or expected levels.

There are a multitude of incentive plans and probably as many good ones as there are bad. It would be difficult to spell out an incentive plan that would work for all situations, but there are a few key factors that should be in each plan.

First, on farrowing operations, profit is incredibly sensitive to the number of pigs sold per sow. Let's say that you sell 16 pigs per sow per year. If you are somehow able to save an extra half pig per litter, you'll increase the number produced per sow per year by roughly one pig. That extra pig is raised in facilities that are already in place, with labor that's already paid for, and with a utility cost that's already covered. So the pig practically goes to market for the cost of feed. The profit on that sort of critter right now is about $50. It's almost always at least $30. That means that you can spend a lot of money to get that extra pig out the door. And the employee, if he or she is in charge of the farrowing house, should be paid well to do it.

Second, an ideal incentive program rewards the employee for something which he or she controls. For instance, if an employee is in charge of the farrowing house, the incentive program should reward him or her for a high pig survival rate. If the employee manages the breeding barn and gilt pool, the incentive program should pay dividends for the number of sows bred. Employees managing the entire operation could be rewarded for the number sold. Profit-based incentives are less desirable since profit is usually controlled by decisions or markets beyond the employee's control.

Third, the incentive should be paid often and promptly. If you have a weekly sow movement schedule, and the incentive is based on pigs weaned, the incentive should be paid weekly. Offering a bonus once per quarter is not often enough to match the reward with the work.

Finally, don't base the incentive on a production level which is difficult to achieve. For example, 8 or 8.5 pigs per litter would be a good base from which to work with an incentive for pigs weaned. If the average for your operation is less than that, the base should also be lower.

Benefits. Besides housing, most employers offer some type of benefits package. Many of the larger companies include health, dental, profit sharing, and retirement.

Health insurance is the most critical and the most expensive. So for family operations, this would be a place to start. But keep in mind that whatever benefit you offer, it will be tax-free income to the employee and it can help you compete in a high-demand market.

Partial ownership. Another component of some compensation packages is partial ownership. This is often a good idea for family members or even unrelated employees who wish to buy into the operation. It's generally not a plus for employees that have no desire to develop long-term commitments.

Employee evaluations

This is a must for both employer and employee. It gives the owner a formal chance to review and reinforce where the operation is headed and what is expected of the employee.

Likewise, the employee has an opportunity to voice concerns he or she has in trying to produce pigs. Generally, the employee should be evaluated on quality of work, quantity of work, initiative, and ability to get along with people. Evaluations should occur at least once a year. Annual salary adjustments should immediately follow.

Pork Prose

Typical problems

Long hours. This may be more of a problem on diversified family operations. Employees may be called upon to do crop work in addition to caring for the pigs.

This can work satisfactorily, and may even be a plus to employees who like variety. The point is to be sure that the employee knows what he's in for the day he's hired.

Environment. Face it, a swine operation is not the cleanest place in the world. The employee breathes a lot of dust, maybe a few manure gases, and goes home each day smelling like a hog.

"Burn out." Employees, managers, and owners alike often reach a point where they lose their drive. They get the work done, but it's not enjoyable enough to go the extra mile and look for problems. This is obvious when a visitor immediately sees a problem that has gone unnoticed by those working on the farm.

Can't advance. Many swine productions jobs provide little opportunity for advancement in responsibilities and salary. This has to be a primary reason for the high turnover rate typical among employees on swine operations. Giving an employee additional responsibility in decision making and management strategy may help you retain a good person.

Suggestions for good relations

1. Write down the responsibilities — what's expected, the salary, time off, etc. This should be written when the offer is made to the prospective employee. It's not that the employer and employee don't have a good understanding during the interview. It's just that the understanding is often modified and adjusted without employee approval.

2. Requiring more than 50 hours per week is not advisable in the long run. Provide a minimum of every other weekend off. (Some of the larger operations have enough employees that they work one weekend out of three.) Working one-half the holidays is customary. One to two week's vacation is also standard.

3. Provide a good incentive program. Know that extra pigs per litter are worth a lot of money. Tailor the program around some measure of productivity which the employee can control. Pay incentives often (which usually conforms to movement schedule) and promptly. Base the incentive on a reasonable production average.

4. Invite the employee to the business meetings to review income and production statements. This goes a long way toward making the employee feel like a part of the operation. And it provides another set of eyes for spotting problems.

Pork Checkoff Funds Change Consumer Views

DES MOINES, Iowa — Pork producer checkoff dollars and U.S. targeted export assistance funds will be used this year to stage 19 different foreign market promotions of U.S. pork in such diverse places as Mexico, Singapore, Japan, Hong Kong, and various eastern European countries.

U.S. pork export initiatives funded in part with checkoff dollars have resulted in increased exports every year since the industry's program began in 1987. Pork promotions in Hong Kong and Japan are just two of the checkoff-funded U.S. pork promotions to be held this year.

A recent breakfast promotion featuring U.S. pork in McDonald's Hong Kong restaurant chain has been termed a great success, according to pork industry and McDonald's officials.

U.S. pork producer checkoff dollars and U.S. targeted export assistance money, along with McDonald's, funded the second annual promotion which was part of the pork industry's efforts to expand the use of U.S. pork in foreign markets. In previous promotions, three out of every 10 Hong Kong McDonald's breakfast customers ordered a product containing U.S. pork.

In conjunction with the promotion, U.S. pork producer leaders conducted a trade mission to Hong Kong. Pork is a staple in the diet of Hong Kong consumers, who spend 45 percent of their disposable income on food, with pork being their second largest food expenditure item.

This month, several U.S. pork industry officials are taking part in a trade mission to Japan. Pork producer checkoff dollars will be used to conduct a pork seminar; fund a large meat case exhibit of fresh boneless U.S. pork; conduct a pork seminar at the Takegishi Academy, Japan's foremost meat cutting academy for chefs and retailers; and fund various other promotional and informational activities.

Who makes the most practical tractors?

Last year, more value-minded farmers picked Massey-Ferguson than any other make.

In fact, one of every five tractors now sold in the Western World is an M-F. Which makes Massey-Ferguson the Western World's largest tractor manufacturer.

One of the big reasons for this popularity is the great value of the 50-90 PTO hp line of M-F 300 Series tractors.

They all give you the torque, economy and reliability of world-famous Perkins diesel engines and all the advantages of advanced Ferguson system hydraulics. Plus you get the practical features you want, like hydrostatic steering as standard equipment.

Massey-Ferguson engineers put a lot of time and effort into designing these tractors to save more of your time and effort. They're incredibly easy to operate and maintain. And they have one of the best reliability records of any tractor ever made.

Better ask your M-F dealer soon to show you why an M-F 300 Series tractor can be the best value for your hard-earned investment.

Practical choices.

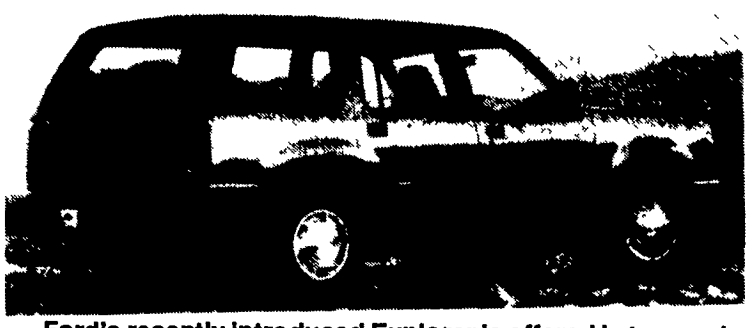
Business News



Ford's recently introduced Explorer is offered in two-and four-door models with two- and four-wheel drive. A new electronically fuel-injected 4.0 liter V-6 engine is standard on all models.

Explorer Is Best-Seller

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The recently-introduced Ford Explorer was America's best-selling compact sport-utility vehicle in July, according to Brian McCulley, vice president of Freedom Ford of Ephrata, Inc.

"Ford compact sport utility sales in the Northeast region in July were 4,271, up 91 percent from the same period a year ago," McCulley said. "Explorer, the hottest-selling product in its segment, nationally outsold its closest competitor by 1,558 units in July."

McCulley said that 50 percent of area Explorer buyers own three or more vehicles, 53 percent are between 35 and 54 years old, and 90 percent are married.

Offered in two- and four-door models with two- and four-wheel drive, Explorer has a new electronically fuel-injected 4.0-liter V-6 engine standard on all models. Five-speed manual or four-speed automatic overdrive transmissions are available.

"Explorer's 4.0-liter engine delivers excellent economy and power," McCulley noted. "It gets up to speed quickly and is superb when it comes to towing boats and trailers. The interior is also outstanding, providing plenty of headroom for the over-six-foot crowd."

Deutz-Allis Intros Loader

NORCROSS, Ga.— Deutz-Allis Corporation is introducing a new front-end loader designed specifically to fit its popular 54 PTO/horsepower Model 6150 utility tractor.

Tractor and loader engineers have worked together in designing the new Model 346 loader to ensure that it is perfectly matched to the 6150 tractor, says Dan Wahl, product marketing manager, farm equipment.

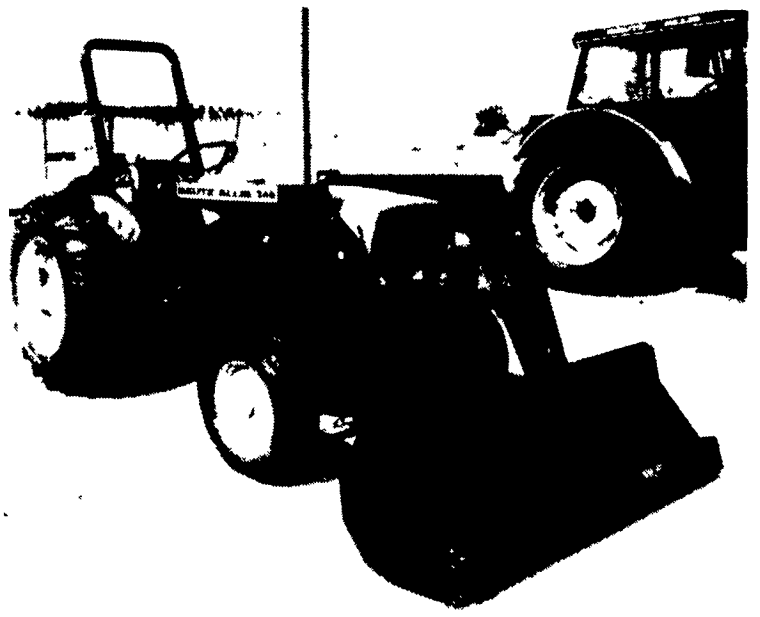
Wahl outlines these features of the Model 346 loader:

• A High-strength steel frame wraps around the front axle housing and extends all the way to the rear drawbar mount to absorb shock and evenly spread the forces of heavy loads.

• Heavy duty lift and bucket cylinders provide 3,800 pounds breakout force and 1,800 pounds of lift capacity to full height.

• Maximum lift height of nearly nine feet, 45-degree dump angle and more than seven feet of clearance with the bucket dumped allows loading, stacking or retrieving with room to spare.

• Low profile mounting keeps the loader frame even with the tractor's hoodline for unexcelled operator visibility. For extra convenience, a bucket position indicator is standard equipment.



The new Deutz-Allis Model 346 loader has been designed to ensure a perfect match to the Model 6150 tractor.

• Quick-on design with three-point parking and standard parking stand makes mounting and removal a one-man task. Simply disconnect two quick-clamps and hydraulic power does the work.

Wahl says the new loader also comes equipped with several options, including a single-lever control valve that puts control of all loader functions in one hand to making operation smoother, easier and faster. This option also allows simultaneous lift/lower and bucket cylinder operation, plus fast bucket dumps for better clean out of sticky material.

Another option is the dual lever control valve conveniently mounted and easy to operate.

The Model 346 loader has a full range of buckets and attachments, including a 60-inch manure fork, 60- and 72-inch material buckets and a 42-inch adjustable pallet fork.

Welsh Hill Farms Is Hoffman Rep

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.)— Hoffman Seeds has appointed Welsh Hill Farms of Morgantown, as a sales representative for Berks County.

Welsh Hill Farms will handle the full line of Hoffman products, including Funk G Brand hybrids. Welsh Hill Farms was appointed because of their knowledge of local growing conditions.

Welsh Hill Farms is a member of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and DHIA.

Hoffman Seeds is the northeastern distributor for Funk G Brand hybrids, now produced by the CIBA—GEIGY Seed Division. Hoffman also carries a proprietary line of alfalfa, soybeans, and other farm seeds developed especially for localized areas of the northeast. The company has been serving northeastern agriculture since 1899.

USDA Projects Wheat Acreage Reduction

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — To assist wheat farmers in planning for the coming year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture tentatively projected a 10 to 20 percent acreage reduction requirement for the 1991 wheat program.

"The final program cannot be announced until the farm bill is completed," Donald E. Lutz, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said. Price support levels established by the 1990 farm bill may influence the final acreage reduction percentage.

While the percentages are tentative, Lutz said. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter wanted to focus as much light on the program as possible in the absence of a farm bill and give farmers the most accurate estimates available on how much land will be idled.

Recently, the House and Senate passed their versions of the farm bill, but further conference action is required before a farm bill becomes law.

To make sure U.S. wheat is competitive in world markets, USDA will continue to use the Export Enhancement Program, which is currently available in 41 countries. The program is open and available in almost every major and minor wheat or flour market where American farmers face unfair competition from the European Community.

Lutz said final provisions of the 1991 wheat program will be announced as soon as the 1990 farm bill is enacted.

Maryland, U.S.S.R. Sign Pact

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — An Aquaculture exchange program between Maryland and the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Fisheries was formally signed August 29 at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. The agreement involves the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland System, the Maryland Aquaculture Association, and the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Fisheries.

It paves the way for Soviet aquafarmers and students to visit Maryland aquaculture operations in April and May of 1991. Maryland aquafarmers and students will pay a reciprocal visit to the U.S.S.R. at a later date. Signing the agreement, from right, are Soviet Minister of Fisheries Nikolai Kotlyar, A. Elizarov of the Soviet Ministry, University of Maryland System Vice Chancellor for Agriculture and Natural Resources Dr. Raymond J. Miller, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr., Maryland Aquaculture Association President Max Chambers, and V. Sukhov of the Soviet Ministry.

Cyanamid Supports Pork Quality Assurance

WAYNE, N.J. — American Cyanamid has announced a partnership effort with the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) in support of the Pork Quality Assurance (PQA) Program.

PQA was developed by NPPC to help pork producers avoid illegal drug residues, improve management skills, and reduce pork production costs.

Cyanamid support for the PQA Program includes providing a toll-free number so that pork producers can sign up by phone for the program. The number will be publicized in advertising and direct mail campaigns for AUREOZOL® 250 feed additive. In addition, Cyanamid is producing window hangers and posters carrying a "hog wild about pork quality" theme.

The posters, which also encourage producers to sign up for PQA by calling the toll-free number, are designed for use by feed dealers. The vehicle window hangers will be available free to pork producers from participating dealers.

Fred Gutzmann, antibiotic feed products business manager for Cyanamid, said the company "has always been supportive of pork producers and their industry." He said, "We're very proud of the fact that we're joining with NPPC in its effort to promote the PQA Program."

Mike Wehler, NPPC President, said, "NPPC is pleased about American Cyanamid's leadership in supporting Pork Quality Assurance. We appreciate the participation of Cyanamid and other animal health product suppliers in promoting this important program."

Producers wishing to take advantage of the toll-free number to sign up for the Pork Quality Assurance program should call (800) 426-2924.

GREAT FOR DAIRY & AGRICULTURE

O_3 by Ozotech

Do you recall the sweet, fresh smell after a refreshing summer rainstorm? That's activated oxygen, commonly referred to as ozone. It's nature's most powerful purifying agent, and now it can be yours too! We create the same thing electronically to treat the water your family drinks and bathes in. The result is "naturally treated water" from every tap inside and outside your home.

Farewell to:
Sulphur smell, bad taste and black scale Staining caused by iron and other minerals
Bacterial contamination
Slime and growth in toilet bowl and tank
Embarassing odor and color
Algae, organics

Hello to:
Clear, delicious, polished water from every tap
Chemical free treatment
Odor free water, no more color
Increased efficiency and money savings - No corrosion or scale in your plumbing
Oxygen enriched water
A healthier life style

Phillips' Barrow Champion At Solanco

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Mike Phillips, 17, a senior at Penn Manor High School, had a chance to regain his swine championship last week at the Solanco Fair. And regain it he did.

Coming in tops with his 230-pound spotted Poland China barrow, he managed to clinch the win in a close race with a heavier York cross, a 238-pounder exhibited by Ryan Rohrer, 15, from Oxford. All this considering the Phillips now raise hogs only for show — and only two of them for Mike, at that.

The medium weight pig impressed Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester Co. livestock agent, who liked the hog's muscling. "I just really like the thickness that I see, the very lean-bodied barrow. He tracks wide coming and going."

Fairbairn said that because of the hog's feet, "he tends to look a little shorter than the others, but if you lined them up together, he's just about as long as anything in here."

Reserve champion was Ryan Roher, 15, Oxford, who has been exhibiting in fairs for 10 years.

The grand champion hog was purchased by Powls Feed Service for $2.62 per pound for a total of $602.60. Hostetter Grain purchased the reserve for $2.35 per pound for a total of $559.30.

The showing championship was something special not only for champion Doug Metzler, 17, Penn Manor, but also for the show judge.

"This class I probably enjoy judging better than anything, because it's the individuals out here who are actually doing the work," said Fairbairn. "Mom and dad can buy the pigs and mom and dad can help feed them and mom and dad and brother and sister can help fit them and everything else, but when they get out here in showmanship, it's these youngster's work that win it or lose it for them."

Fairbairn commended the exhibitors for coming out and "giving it a go."

Reserve showmanship champion was Ryan Rohrer.

A total of 64 hogs were shown by 34 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

Membership in Hy Club is the highest sales honor awarded to territory managers by Cargill Hybrid Seeds. The award is based on territory sales, activities to obtain new business, credit and inventory management, and marketing techniques.

Keener received the award at a Cargill Hybrid Seeds national sales meeting on July 31-August 2 in Minneapolis.

Lehigh Co. Takes Farm Preservation Applications

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The Lehigh County agricultural land preservation board is again accepting applications from eligible landowners interested in selling agricultural conservation easements to Lehigh County and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Lehigh County landowners with farms enrolled in agricultural security areas are eligible to apply to sell their development rights through the County's Agricultural Conservation Easement Program. The deadline for applications is Monday, October 1, 1990.

In the first application period earlier this year, 10 landowners applied to sell their development rights on more than 1,000 acres of farmland in the county. Using a ranking system that considers soil quality and location factors, the board selected the top six scoring farms for appraisal.

The board's appraiser is currently determining the value of these six potential conservation easements. As soon as the appraisals are completed, the board will begin purchase negotiations for the development rights on the six farms.

Any landowner interested in this program should contact Jeff Zehr, staff for the board, by calling (215) 820-3398 or by stopping by the Lehigh County Agricultural Center, Suite 105, 4184 Dorney Park Road, Allentown, PA 18104.

Newsprint Bedding Project a Success

After seven months of operation, 92 Berks County farmers have used 306 tons of newsprint saving 2,295 cubic yards of landfill space.

Developed to save newsprint from going to landfills while providing clean, cheaper bedding for animals, Berks County's newsprint bedding project has proven very successful.

Using an industrial paper shredder and a farm baler, 50 pound bales are sold at $30.00 per ton or $1.00 per bale. The 1/2" wide by 18" long strips of paper work well in any animal bedded pack situation. Dairy farmers with tie or free stalls are using a bale shredder to cut the long strips.

Labor is being provided by five trustees from the Berks County Prison who are being paid four dollars per person per day. Merrilee Levin, Berks County recycling coordinator, oversees the project while Joe Crocket, correctional officer, directs the shredding and baling.

The project could have saved farmers $3,300 if they would have had to purchase straw on the open market, as straw averaged $80 per ton. In addition, $1,500 profit will be turned over to the Berks County Land Preservation Board for the purchase of conservation easements.

If you are interested, please call the Newsprint Recycling Program at (215) 378-3040 or (215) 378-1327.

Prevention And Control Of Coccidiosis In Goat With Decoquinate

Decoquinate (Deccox®) at the 0.5 mg/kg rate approved for cattle was a safe and effective coccidiostat in goat kids.

This trial involved 50 weaned goat kids 2 to 4 months of age; all were passing coccidial oocysts when purchased. They were housed in groups of 10 in dirt-floored pens. They were fed alfalfa hay and were treated for 87 days with 0 (control), 0.3, 0.5, 2.0 or 4.0 mg decoquinate in feed/kg body weight.

The drug was incorporated into an alfalfa 69 percent barley 31 percent pellet via addition of calculated amounts of 6 percent Deccox® premix. On day 19 each goat was inoculated orally with 40,000 sporulated oocysts (Eimeria christensen, E. ninakohlayakimovae).

After challenge (especially 12 to 26 days later), nontreated goats developed a profuse watery diarrhea and soiled hindquarters. Tenesmus but no blood was noted. Two died and the rest gained poorly.

All medicated animals gained weight at a constant level and were free of clinical signs of disease or toxicity. As kids treated at 0.3 mg/kg shed more oocysts, a minimal treatment level of 0.5 mg/kg is recommended, beginning as soon as the kids eat solid food. The optimum length of treatment has not been established.
